

Nixon on Draft

Cancels Call for 50,000

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon announced today cancellation of draft calls for 50,000 men in November and December.

He said that in addition to calling off the draft of 32,000 men in November and 18,000 in December, induction of 29,000 scheduled for October would be phased out over all three months of the final quarter of the year.

The President said that if Congress does not act this year on his proposal for shifting to a lottery-type draft, he would institute a random selection system by executive order.

Nixon made the disclosure in a brief statement just prior to a news conference at the White House called by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

The 32,000 draft figures for November and 18,000 for December mentioned by Nixon had not been made public previously but the 29,000 quota for October was announced earlier.

The Laird news conference had been scheduled previously at the Pentagon to make public what he said in advance would be "significant changes" in draft calls, as a result of the 60,000-man troop reduction in Vietnam set to be completed by Dec. 15.

Nixon's disclosure that the total draft call for the last three months of the year would be the 29,000 previously scheduled only for October would mean that the total number of inductions for 1969 would be 289,000—slightly below 1968.

The total number of draftees last year was 296,000. By the end of this month, the 1969 inductions will total 260,000. Nixon earlier expressed disappointment today to Republican House and Senate leaders that his basic legislative recommendations were moving so slowly in Congress.

Nixon's views were passed on by House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan after a long morning conference at the White House.

Ford said the discussion centered on three areas—draft reform, postal reform and anticrime legislation.

Ford and Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado said the president laid down no priority or "must" list of legislation, but wanted action on all of his basic legislative programs.

"The administration wants action on all of the various programs," Ford said. "There is some disappointment that there has not been more action across the board."

He said that the administration, realistically, does not anticipate final passage of all 40 Nixon proposals at this session. What the President wants, according to Ford, is "substantial action" at the committee level, with the hope that his legislative program could be completed at least by next year.

Communist delegations in Paris try to make President Nixon appear as tough as former President Johnson. On the warfront, B52 bombers raid enemy bivouacs near Cambodia. . . . Stories on Page 2.

Ford said that the administration view of legislative priorities would be defined next week.

The fact that draft and postal reform and anticrime legislation received the most attention at today's meeting did not, according to Ford and Allott, amount to an establishment of priorities in the President's view.

As far as draft reform is concerned, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today he saw little prospect of the legislation making it through Congress this year.

He noted that the Armed Services Committee and its chairman, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., have been tied up more than two months on a military hardware bill.

"I think Stennis would like to get to draft reform. But there is such a backlog built up in his committee I doubt he will be able to," Mansfield told newsmen.

Nixon's plan stopped short of outright temporary suspension of the calls. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had announced earlier that 29,000 men will be inducted in October, no change from the September call. The year's high was 33,700 in February, the low was 22,300 in July.

Nixon arranged his public statement today on future plans for the Selective Service System prior to Laird's news conference at the White House.

Nixon had promised, at the National Governor's Conference in Colorado Springs, Colo., recently: "We shall have some directives that will be issued in the very near future that will accomplish some of the goals concerning what he called 'the unnecessarily long period of uncertainty that now hangs over the lives of millions of our young people.'"

There had been much speculation but no certain information about the direction Nixon planned to take in accomplishing this goal.

Earlier this week, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler acknowledged that outright suspension of the draft for at least a month or longer had been under discussion.

However, administration sources said later such a move was not under consideration for the immediate future.

Soviet Bloc Turns Deaf Ear to Peace Urgings

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet and Hungarian pronouncements today in Moscow and New York dashed hope that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would accept President Nixon's challenge to put pressure on Hanoi for a negotiated end to the Vietnam War.

Gromyko spoke to the General Assembly shortly after noon in the second day of the assembly's annual policy debate—and just one day after Nixon appealed to the 126 U.N. members to pressure Hanoi into a settlement.

One pronouncement in Moscow came from Moscow radio correspondent Leonid Lipovetsky in Washington who said the Nixon speech showed the United States will continue "aggression" in Vietnam. The Soviet army newspaper Red Star jibed at Washington for trying to reach a ceasefire by suspending B52 raids for 36 hours.

Gromyko's reply to Nixon was foreshadowed by a Communist colleague, Ambassador Karoly Csotarday of Hungary who said Nixon's appeal was merely an attempt to shift responsibility for peace in Vietnam to the rest of the world.

Reports circulated at the U.N. that Gromyko would give the Kremlin's reply to Washington's repeated proposals for talks on strategic arms, including the controversial antiballistic missile system.

It was reported he would suggest the talks begin Oct. 14 in Helsinki. U.S. sources, who previously suggested Vienna as a site, said they had heard these reports but knew nothing of such a proposal officially from the Soviet Union.

The President in his address to the assembly urged his listeners, including Gromyko, to "use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations that could end the war in Vietnam."

A spokesman for the Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks said after Nixon's speech: "The United Nations has no business dealing with the Vietnam war."

Nixon also said the United States favors "an agreement on the limitation of the shipment of arms to the Middle East" and "hoped soon to begin talks with the Soviet Union on the limitation of strategic arms"—missiles and antimissile missiles.

Nixon said his government had "indicated to the Soviet Union, without result," its willingness to discuss the former subject, "and the date it had proposed to open talks on the latter had passed without result."

Gromyko later declined to comment on a report that the Soviet Union was willing to start the long-delayed missile talks in Helsinki in mid-October.

Discussions on the Middle East between the U.S. and Soviet governments resumed Thursday after a summer recess. Dobrynin and Joseph J. Sisco, U.S. assistant secretary of state for the Near East and South Asia, had a three-hour talk on that subject at the Waldorf.

They were understood to have agreed on suggested questions for Gromyko and Secretary of State William Rogers to take up at dinner meetings in New York next Monday and Friday.

Pattern Seeks Aid for Housing Plan

NEW PALTZ Pattern for Progress, the citizen's regional planning and development corporation, is seeking a commitment from the Mid-Hudson's private business interests to help finance the first part of a regional development program aimed at building new housing, industrial, commercial and public facilities in the seven-county area, including Ulster.

The program and its financing were discussed Thursday at a meeting of representatives of the region's major business and governmental interests with Edward J. Logue, president of the State Urban Development Corporation (UDC) and other state officials.

The meeting, at the Storm King Art Center in Mountainville, Orange County, was held under the auspices of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, and drew more than 100 state and local governmental officials and representatives of major industrial and financial institutions, both regional and national, which have a stake in the area's future development.

Among those representing Ulster County at the Thursday session were Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, Kingston's Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, Len Cane, executive director and Dean Kintner, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

The major industrial, financial and commercial institutions of the county were represented also.

According to H. Peter Stern, chairman of Pattern's board of directors, the purpose of the session was to gain private financial support and participation in the proposed planning and development program, which will involve UDC, Pattern for Progress, the Regional Plan Association of New York (RPA), and various other public and private interests.

The proposed program, which, in essence, constitutes a partnership between the public and private business, is directed at helping to resolve many of the major social, economic and developmental problems in the region. It applies specifically to the counties of Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Sullivan and Ulster.

As explained by Logue at yesterday's session, the program is broken down into two successive parts:

— A six-month start-up effort to get the program underway.

— An 18-month main effort during which the program will be fully implemented.

Logue also stressed the program's three-pronged emphasis to:

• Formulating a broadly supported Mid-Hudson regional development policy to help structure growth in the seven counties.

• Initiating selected demonstration development projects to begin to implement that policy.

• Engaging the participation of affected interests throughout the planning and implementation process.

Among the items under discussion was the funding for the start-up part of the program, which is estimated to cost a total of $360,000. Of that total figure, UDC already has pledged $100,000. The remainder will be raised jointly by Pattern for Progress and the Regional Plan Association from private business and foundation sources, with the Mid-Hudson's share of the program to be $50,000.

Direct Election Passes House; Amendment by Fish Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment calling for the direct, popular election of the president has been approved by the House in such an overwhelming fashion that even the measure's supporters are surprised—and pleased.

An amendment which would have reduced the 40 per cent popular vote requirement to 35 per cent was offered by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. It was defeated.

"The 40 per cent requirement does not provide the needed margin of safety against a runoff election. Four of our presidents have been elected within a few percentage points of the 40 per cent level," said Fish in offering the amendment.

He further added that third and fourth party candidates would be discouraged by the lower figure. "Clearly the higher requirement, the greater the incentive for a third party challenge," he said.

It marked the second time the area congressman entered the voting requirement debate.

The size of Thursday's vote—339-70—raised backers' hopes that the proposal can win Senate approval, state ratification and become the 26th amendment to the Constitution.

However, Senate prospects for the proposal are uncertain. There is strong opposition in the Judiciary Committee, where the question of electoral reform is now stalled.

And several weeks ago Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief supporter of the amendment, said it was 13 votes short of the needed two-thirds majority on the floor.

But Bayh took heart from the House vote, which he called "encouraging, dramatic and historic."

"This is an important step in building the momentum that could assure its passage in the Senate and, hopefully, guarantee acceptance by the state legislatures," he said.

The House vote disclosed solid bipartisan support for the proposal, which would scrap the system used to elect every President since George Washington.

Instead of voting for electors who then cast their ballots for the president, citizens would vote directly for their candidate.

And instead of counting up the electoral votes of the states to determine the president, the winner would be the candidate who got the most individual votes in a nationwide tally.

A candidate would have to get at least 40 per cent of the popular vote to win. If none did, there would be a runoff between the top two.

Opponents charged the 40 per cent provision could lead to a minority president, but Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., manager of the bill, countered by pointing out that 15 presidents have been elected with less than 50 per cent of the popular vote.

That includes President Nixon, who got slightly more than 43 per cent.

Cells brought the week long debate on the measure to a dramatic, emotional close by declaring House passage would be "the crowning achievement of my life."

The 81-year-old chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who has served in the House for 46 years, told his colleagues he was nearing the end of his life. "The abyss awaits me," he said. "Passage will be a real event in my life." He received a standing ovation as he went back to his seat.

Mino Ruling Due Monday In Tyrrell Eviction Case

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The saga of James Tyrrell and the eviction notice went to County Court today but still the question remains—why was Tyrrell evicted?

Actually, Tyrrell, the Republican mayoral candidate, hasn't been evicted, legally. That decision lies in the hands of County Judge Raymond J. Mino who heard testimony on the case this morning. Judge Mino said he would make a decision on the case on Monday.

Tyrrell and his wife, Judy, were represented by Howard C.

St. John while Garvin Fisher, Tyrrell's landlord, was represented by George A. Beck. All three principals, Tyrrell, his wife and Fisher, were called to the witness stand by both attorneys.

One of the questions that was never asked was why Tyrrell was being evicted. After the trial, Beck and Fisher said they would hold a press conference on Monday following Judge Mino's decision and "give the full facts on the case."

According to testimony heard today, Tyrrell and his wife rented the apartment of 52 First Avenue from Fisher at $80 per month in May of 1967. Fisher said that there was no written agreement between him and Tyrrell and that Tyrrell said he intended to rent the apartment for a period of a year to 18 months.

The rent was raised to $85 per month in June of this year. On July 8, Fisher said he told Tyrrell that he wanted him out of the apartment by Aug. 31.

On July 28 Fisher gave Tyrrell written notice that he wanted him out by Aug. 31. Tyrrell apparently ignored the notice, sending Fisher a check for the September rent by registered mail on Sept. 1. That last check, which Fisher still has in his possession, seemed to be the main bone of contention among the attorneys. Beck said that the check had not been accepted since Fisher had not cashed it or deposited it to any account. St. John argued that since Fisher did not return the check (to Tyrrell) that he had accepted it and therefore Tyrrell could remain on the premises.

Tyrrell has charged that the Democrats are involved in the eviction proceedings in an effort toward "character assassination."

The trial was brief, lasting some 40 minutes.

The Beret Case— Two Against Six

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP)—Two of the eight Green Beret men charged with murdering a Vietnamese agent are not being brought to trial because the Army is arranging for them to testify against the other six Special Forces men, military sources said today.

The sources said the two men, Chief Warrant Officer Edward M. Boyle of New York City and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr. of Naples, Fla., will be given immunity from U.S. prosecution, and the Army now is talking with the Saigon government to arrange for immunity at that end.

The Army announced Thursday that Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., commander of the Special Forces in Vietnam when the agent disappeared, and five of his staff officers would stand trial before an Army court on charges of murder and conspiracy.

An Army spokesman also announced that charges against Boyle and Smith were being held in abeyance pending trial of the other cases. No explanation was given.

A U.S. Army spokesman said Boyle and Smith "are no longer under confinement but are in a parole status." However, he said the two men must remain on the Long Binh base 15 miles north of Saigon "so that they will be readily available."

The Army still refuses to make any details of the case public. But other sources have reported that the man killed was a Vietnamese working for the Special Forces in Cambodia who was discovered to be working for North Vietnam. The body reportedly was dumped in the South China Sea and has not been found.

B52s in Raids Near Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Six flights of B52 bombers raided Viet Cong and North Vietnamese bivouacs within a mile of the Cambodian border in strikes north of Saigon it was announced today. U.S. military reports of the overnight strikes accompanied an increase of 1.5 per cent over July. At least 630 tons of bombs from the B52s exploded across the sparsely populated border frontier where U.S. headquarters said the guerrillas have base camps, bunker complexes and staging areas which feed infiltration routes toward Saigon.

Nixon Target Now

PARIS (UPI)—The Communists at the Vietnam talks have stepped up denunciations of U.S. peace moves in an apparent campaign to make President Nixon appear at least as tough as former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Eight months after his inauguration and a series of moves toward de-escalating the fighting, Nixon is confronted with almost constant charges he is stepping up the war.

Diplomats at the Paris talks said that contrary to their tradition of caution, Hanoi and the Viet Cong have lately been condemning Nixon's Vietnam policy within minutes after each U.S. pronouncement.

Allied officials said the Communist delegations sought to play for time, hoping their denunciations of Nixon ultimately will stir up more antiwar sentiment in the American public.

Diplomats said the Communists' campaign against the Johnson administration. The aim, they said, was to establish the idea that one U.S. administration was as unyielding on the war as the other.

The latest example was Nixon's appeal to the U.N. General Assembly Thursday. He asked U.N. members to pressure Hanoi to show a more flexible position.

"The United Nations has no right to intervene in the Vietnamese problem," said Viet Cong spokesman Duong Dinh Thao. North Vietnam had more to say on the issue.

"There are many nations in the United Nations that support the Vietnamese people's fight against American aggression. We are sure that each day more countries will come to support our demands that the United States will end its war and pull out its troops unconditionally."

"Since he has assumed his official functions—since inauguration—Nixon has been speaking a lot about peace," a Viet Cong spokesman said. "He even made a lyrical allusion to traveling on wings of peace."

"In his recent trip to Asia, Nixon also spoke a lot about peace. But even official U.S. circles have stated that Nixon follows in Johnson's footsteps. His recent moves, the suspension of troop withdrawals, reactivation of B52 bombing missions and recently the new drop-by-drop pullout of troops all have been denounced by world public opinion."

from the B52s exploded across the sparsely populated border frontier where U.S. headquarters said the guerrillas have base camps, bunker complexes and staging areas which feed infiltration routes toward Saigon.

The raids in Phuoc Long Province 99 to 102 miles north of the capital were reported in war communiques that described ground fighting across South Vietnam Thursday as light and scattered.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners, in one of 13 overnight barrages, shelled the Dong Ha headquarters of the 3rd Marine Divisions scheduled to leave the war zone by Dec. 15. Spokesmen said fewer than 10 rockets fell on the base, causing no fatalities.

In one reported skirmish Thursday, U.S. 4th Infantry Division troops sent artillery barrages and helicopter gunships against a unit of 70 North Vietnamese in the Central Highlands, killing 20 of them.

Spokesmen said other U.S. troops patrolling south of the air base at Chu Lai had uncovered eight 122mm rocket launchers with tripods and aiming sights—the most launchers found in a single location in the war.

Headquarters in Saigon identified two high-ranking field commanders who were among the 13 soldiers killed Wednesday when two U.S. Army helicopters collided southwest of Saigon.

They were Col. Dale J. (Jack) Crittenger, 42, of McLean, Va., commander of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade, and one of his battalion commanders, Lt. Col. Leo P. Sikorski, 36, of Camp Springs, Md.

Mary Jo Case-- Blood in Mouth

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis said Thursday that "a certain amount of blood" was present in the mouth and nose of Mary Jo Kopechne after she was found dead.

Dinis also said, in applying for an autopsy on the dead girl's body, that the white shirt she was wearing when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car went off a bridge was stained with what appeared to be blood.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Dominick J. Arena of Edgartown, Mass., said this morning he saw no blood on the body when it was removed from Sen. Kennedy's car.

Miss Kopechne, a Washington, D.C., secretary, was found dead July 19 in Sen. Kennedy's car which had gone off a bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

An inquest into her death was postponed earlier this month. Dinis' disclosures were contained in a four-page letter sent to the Luzerne County, Pa., Court of Common Pleas, where a judge demanded more evidence from Dinis before granting permission for a hearing to determine if an autopsy was necessary.

"There appear on the white shirt worn by Mary Jo Kopechne 'washed out' reddish brown and brown stains on the backs of both sleeves, the back and collar; that these stains give positive benzidine reaction, and indication of the presence of residual traces of blood; that said residue is of insufficient amount to make further tests as to specific origin or type," said the letter released by Dinis' assistant, Armand Fernandez.

ANTI-CRIME PACKAGE—Senator Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., told a news conference Thursday he has offered a three-part anti-crime package, which includes pre-trial detention for persons who repeat a felony involving serious bodily injury. He said the public is properly outraged that today the law cannot operate to detain this category of repeat offenders, who, by any common sense standard, poses a very serious danger to the community in which he lives. Administration Gunning For the Smut Peddlers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, responding to public demand for a crackdown, has quietly mounted an extensive campaign against huge mail-order distributors of pornography.

As a result, 20 persons and 22 companies have been indicted or arrested during the past eight months on charges of distributing obscene materials.

A new round of prosecutions is expected in the next two weeks, and Justice Department lawyers are evaluating results from 14 investigations to determine if grand jury action should be sought.

The anti-pornography activity — a joint effort by the Justice and Post Office departments — followed two years of little action resulting from broad interpretations of Supreme Court decisions on obscenity.

But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell differed with the previous administration on interpretation of the opinions and he ordered more vigorous prosecution.

In a letter to Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, Mitchell laid down his views on prosecuting smut peddlers, emphasizing the main thrust of enforcement should be against big interstate distributors.

"The prosecutive efforts of the department..." he told Blount, "are aimed at bringing to trial at the earliest possible dates the large mail order distributors presently under indictment."

Mitchell presented to Congress earlier this summer two new proposals aimed at protecting minors and stopping questionable material from reaching persons who don't want to get it in the mail.

In deciding to start new test cases, Mitchell particularly emphasized the need for amplification of Supreme Court opinions which banned publications that might be harmful to children, although not legally obscene for adults.

Department sources said about six new cases are ready for presentation to grand juries, possibly within two weeks.

Among those already being prosecuted or under investigation, the department claims, is the vast majority of the large-scale dealers in pornographic material." The officials list about 20 to 25 large corporations that traffic in pornography.

The most recent indictment is against Marvin Miller, 40, who operates a publishing business in Southern California.

A federal grand jury in Los Angeles indicted Miller and Covina Publishing Inc. Tuesday on 27 counts involving violations of federal obscenity statutes.

The first 17 counts accused him of mailing obscene advertisements to individuals as well as churches, schools and a Young Women's Christian Association facility.

Miller and his operations were described in an Associated Press dispatch last June 29.

Haynsworth Hearings: No End Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The conflicting testimony over Senate hearings into the ap-Haynsworth's qualifications — pointment of Judge Clement F. more of which was in prospect Haynsworth to the Supreme today — marked Thursday's Court moved into their fourth hearings by the Senate Judiciary today with no end in sight.

can Bar Association praised the nomination and the AFL-CIO condemned it.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, accused Haynsworth of antiunion and anticivil rights bias and a lack of ethical standards. He said Haynsworth is not fit to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

His testimony came on the heels of an endorsement of Haynsworth's nomination by Lawrence E. Walsh, chairman of the American Bar Association's Committee on the Federal Judiciary.

Walsh said Haynsworth, now chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals, is "a man of impeccable integrity" and that his professional qualifications are "at the top."

In contrast, Walsh testified the ABA committee concluded Haynsworth had no direct or indirect interest in the outcome of the Deering Milliken litigation and had a duty to participate in the case.

Heaviest Yet: Guerrillas

Israel Pooh-Poohs Big Attack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Fatah claimed its guerrillas made their heaviest attacks ever on Israel Thursday night, but Israel reported only one skirmish in which it said four Arab saboteurs and no Israelis were killed.

A spokesman for Al Fatah, the largest Palestinian guerrilla organization, said in Amman that hundreds of commandos attacked 14 positions along a 30-mile front in the Jordan Valley. A later communique said the raiders wiped out two Israeli observation posts and three advance posts in the central valley.

Variety of Weapons

The spokesman said the raiders used a variety of weapons, including heavy mortars, and that the Israeli air force was forced to send in jets for night strikes against them.

"This must be a joke," said the Israeli army spokesman, Lt. Col. Shubael Shalev. "Maybe the Fatah can run air sorties at night when they can't even see the targets but we certainly cannot."

Shalev said there had been only four reports of light arms and mortar fire in the area, with one Israeli soldier slightly wounded.

Two Egypt Shifts

In Cairo, President Gamal Abdel Nasser replaced the Egyptian army's chief of staff and the navy's commander without explanation. Nasser is in bed with what has been described as a case of acute influenza, but informants said he has set up an office in his sickroom and is running the country from there.

reported Israeli mortars and machine guns fired on some Jordanian positions in the southern Jordan Valley, but he said there were no Jordanian casualties.

The Middle East News Agency said Nasser had appointed Lt. Gen. Mohammed Sadek, chief of military intelligence since 1966, as his new army chief of staff, while Navy Col. Mahmoud Fahmi Abdul Rahman was made commander of the navy.

Sadek replaces Lt. Gen. Ahmed Ismail, last heard of when he addressed graduates of the Egyptian War Academy Sept. 9. Rahman succeeds Capt. Faud Zikrey.

Tough Regulations

The Israeli government announced tough new commerce and travel regulations for the city of Hebron, on the occupied West Bank. A spokesman said the new rules forbid residents to work in Israel, to travel either in Jordan or Israel and to trade in either of the two states.

He said the restrictions were ordered because of a growing number of sabotage incidents in the city, including the attempted assassination of the military governor three weeks ago and an attack on a police patrol four days ago in which five Israelis were wounded.

U.S., Russia Explore Areas

NEW YORK (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union Thursday resumed their bilateral discussions on finding a Middle East peace settlement in a first session of talks described as useful even though they produced no dramatic breakthrough.

The meeting was between U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. The two high officials conferred for nearly three hours at a working luncheon at the Waldorf Towers.

It was understood that Sisco and Dobrynin explored five general areas which will be further discussed on Monday when Secretary of State William P. Rogers meets for the first time with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

It also was understood that the discussions between Sisco and Dobrynin centered on the following points:

—How to move the volatile Middle East situation from the current fragile armistice to a stable peace settlement.

SECRETARY ROGERS

ANDREI GROMYKO

—How to get the Israeli and Arab sides to talk to each other about a peace settlement under the auspices of special UN mediator Dr. Gunnar Jarring, a Swedish diplomat.

—How to approach the problem of resettling Arab refugees displaced by the guarantees for an eventual peace settlement.

—How to approach the problem of a withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied Arab territory gained through the Arab-Israeli war of June, 1967.

It was learned that the thorny problem of the status of Jerusalem was not raised during the meeting.

Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko was scheduled to address the UN General Assembly Friday morning and was expected to discuss in some detail the Middle East situation.

Sisco and the Soviet Ambassador planned a second meeting for Monday to continue Thursday's discussions in preparation for a dinner meeting that night between Gromyko and Rogers.

Proxmire Vows Cost Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of defense costs say a new era has opened in public awareness of Pentagon spending despite their crushing defeat on attempt after attempt to trim a $20-billion bill for military hardware.

"We have made a good fight," said Democrat William Proxmire of Wisconsin, a leader in the two-month battle that ended Thursday night with passage of the bill.

"But," he added, "this is merely the opening shot in a larger effort. The critical review will go on."

"A defense system which for years has operated without sufficient public and private checks has now been exposed to the sunlight," said Republican Edward Brooke of Massachusetts. "A good foundation has been laid for future inquiry."

The Proxmire and Brooke comments came as the huge appropriations measure finally passed on an 81-5 vote, climaxing the most heated debate over defense spending in two decades.

Appointments In Saugerties

SAUGERTIES Supply bids were accepted and personnel changes and other appointments were made at this week's Saugerties Central School District Board of Education meeting held at the administration building.

President Robert Herb was elected to serve as a voting delegate from Saugerties at the New York State School Boards Association conference in Syracuse.

The Board of Education instructed the superintendent, Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, to prepare a commendation to be sent to the members of the board's negotiations team in appreciation for their loyalty and service to the Saugerties Central School District. Members of the team were Administrative Assistant David Cunningham, and Principals Dr. George Hamaty, Daniel Lee, Robert Moser, Patrick Buonfiglio, Clarence Bryden, Norman Bolinder, Ernest Blake and Assistant Principal William Hayes.

Acceptance of low bids for athletics equipment and supplies were approved as follows: W. K. Sauer School Equipment—$3,799; Empire Educational Equipment Company—$265.00; Mellor Gym Supply Corporation—$2,121.00; Gymnastic Supply Company—$724.50. The low bid for music equipment and supplies was awarded to Empire Music Supply at $2,566.45.

A list of school bus drivers was approved, contingent upon their meeting state requirements.

The board also approved additional feeder route No. 25 to the transportation system to Ray Garrison, at a cost of $1,400.

Upon the recommendation of Superintendent Arnold, the following personnel changes were approved: Miss Jean Amatucci, school nurse-teacher at the junior high school, resigned effective September 2, in order to accept a position as executive secretary of the New York State School Nurse-Teachers Association. David Moulton of Red Hook, was hired as a secondary vocal music instructor for 1969-70. Moulton earned his BA at Bard College, his MS at Juilliard School of Music, and has had several years of teaching experience at Juilliard and Ulster County Community College. Mrs. Audrey Frost, new school nurse-teacher at the junior high school this year, earned her RN at Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, and is a resident of Kingston. Charles Schirmer, a graduate of Saugerties High School, earned his BS at Ithaca College, and was approved as a physical education instructor in the elementary grades for 1969-70.

Also approved for the 1969-70 school year were the following non-professional appointments: Rose Rinaldi, lunchroom monitor, Main Street school; Joan O'Leary and Joan Whitaker, lunchroom monitors, Mt. Marion school; Millie Gramling, food service helper, Grant D. Morse school; Ruth Ricketson, cashier, and Regina Sullivan, assistant cook, junior-senior high school; and Patrick Yannotti, cleaner, at Morse School.

A resolution for hiring of four retired teachers as substitute teachers for 1969-70 was approved. Names approved were: Leona Clements, Theresa DeWitt, Mary Polhemus, and Beulah Roe.

Extra-curricular activities appointments, providing extra pay, were approved.

In his report to the board, the superintendent announced that the Junior High School was publishing a mimeographed single sheet newspaper to provide educational learning experiences for the pupils.

He reported that in response to a request from a taxpayer requesting the possibility of paying school taxes on installment basis, investigation indicated that only the County Legislature could provide such an opportunity and that such action, if taken, would be permissive and in turn would need to be adopted by the towns and school districts concerned.

Mrs. Ann Karashay reported the committee representing the Ulster County School Boards Association had met Sept. 11 with representatives of the Public Employment Relations Board in Albany to discuss negotiations problems. The next meeting of the Ulster County School Boards Association will be held September 18.

Reporting as the Board of Cooperative Educational Services representative, Charles Emerick stated that a contractual agreement had finally been reached with the instructional unit of BOCES. He also reported on progress of planning for the new BOCES center.

UCCC Schedules Math Lecture

STONE RIDGE Dr. Norman Schaumberger, a nationally recognized mathematician, is scheduled to lecture at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College on Wednesday, Oct. 1. Joan J. Mikalauskas, Chairman of the Mathematics Department, announced today.

Dr. Schaumberger's talk, entitled "The Famous Soap Bubble Problem," will take place at 7:30 p.m. in Room 420 in the John Burroughs Science Building.

The soap bubble problem, dating to the time of Galileo, is essentially the problem of finding the least possible surface area bounded by a closed curve. It was solved in 1929 by Professor Jesse Douglas, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It was the first problem of any significance solved by an American mathematician, and it brought the United States to the forefront of the world mathematical community.

Professor Douglas later became associated with Dr. Schaumberger at City College of New York and the two became good friends.

Dr. Schaumberger presently is professor of mathematics at Bronx Community College and also is a faculty member of Teachers' College, Columbia University.

The public is invited to this interesting and provocative talk and to a reception immediately following.

Pollution Peril

Dr. Lee A. DuBridge, President Nixon's science adviser, is convinced that man's pollution has now become a danger to all life on earth. He told the American Chemical Society at New York that the Administration is committed to combat pollution wherever it perils life.

One area where the Administration will soon move is to take a look at establishing an agency to pre-study the effects of such everyday chemicals as the housewife's new enzyme presoaks and detergents. Such an agency would also screen, before they are released, gasoline additives, pesticides, fumes from chemical and power plants and heat and radioactivity from nuclear plants.

The next area is auto pollution, DuBridge predicted. Federal law now calls for a nationwide standard starting in 1970. It regulates emissions of unburned hydrocarbons, and he believes emissions must be reduced or new forms of engines must be developed.

Finally, the building of better sewage treatment plants and more thorough treatment of industrial wastes would be stimulated. The most radical thought is the idea of screening common chemicals before release. Establishing a federal agency for that purpose could provide revolutionary reduction in pollution from many sources. It would treat chemicals like the Food and Drug Administration now pretests drugs before they are allowed to be sold. Chemicals would not be permitted on sale until their pollution potential is tested and approved. Harm to man and animals would be prevented, instead of being halted after the fact.

Never Enough A-1 Teachers

The teacher shortage that has plagued the nation's schools since the World War II baby boom kids came of school-going age is now over.

In fact, reports the National Education Association, with a record number of new teachers—278,000—entering classrooms for the first time this year, there may actually be an excess of 38,000 teachers.

This is for the nation as a whole. Shortages remain in certain categories: Geographically, in rural areas; academically, in the subjects of math, science, industrial arts, special education, vocational-technical courses and women's physical education. Many schools are also short on librarians and guidance counselors.

Another catch is that the 38,000 excess is based on the barest minimum standards of teacher qualifications. If all schools were to be brought up to "desirable standards," says the NEA, another 224,400 teachers would really be needed.

So the teacher shortage isn't over after all—nor is it likely that it ever will be, as we continue to raise the level of what we consider to be an adequate education for America's children.

Let's All Pull Together

David Lawrence Says Economists Differ on Ways To Stabilize U.S. Economy

WASHINGTON — The big unanswered questions before the country today are whether inflation is really being curbed, and what measures, if any, can be taken to achieve a stabilize economy.

Many of the expert economists differ in their views. The truth of the matter is that anything as huge as the national economy, with its complexity of factors, is hard to appraise at any particular time. The only thing available is the record of past experience when restraints have been imposed, and sometimes these have been slow to take effect.

Industrial production declined in August by two tenths of one per cent. It was the first dip in the index during the last 12 months, according to a Federal Reserve Board report.

The chairman of the reserve board, William McChesney Martin, told the Senate committee on banking and currency a few days ago that he thinks we are "at the tail end" of inflationary price rises. He believes that the nation is on the right course now and that what is needed is patience. He says: "Patience is wearing thin for a lot of people, because they want to see immediate results."

The board itself thinks the momentum of the inflation has been slowed down. The fact is that, while there has been a diminution in the pressure for bank loans and a slight decline in automobile sales, there are no strong indications of a general business decline. The financial expert for the Chicago Tribune, Louis Dombrowski, says:

"Most economists believe that inflation is being brought under control. However, they also agree that it may be another six months to a year before the effects filter down to the neighborhood supermarket and stores."

Such a forecast, he adds, doesn't offer much comfort to the nation's homemakers, "who are well aware that the living costs this year have been rising at the sharpest rate in 18 years."

Some of the larger banks in the country differ as to just what is happening. The monthly economic letter of the First National Bank of New York City says that it would be a mistake to assume that the struggle against inflation has made little headway so far this year. The survey continues:

"The important point to bear in mind is that while price inflation may continue to be excessive for a time yet, the sharp reduction in real growth that has already occurred will not permit excessive inflation to continue indefinitely."

The Continental Bank of Chicago raises the question of whether direct wage and price controls will be needed to supplement the fiscal and monetary restraints that have already been applied. Its letter says:

"Past experience with direct wage and price controls suggests that they produce little long-term benefit in combating inflation and actually only postpone the problem....

"There is increasing evidence that a further slowing in business activity is developing which will work to reduce intense inflationary pressures....

"While economic activity is expected to slow further, there will continue to be strong upward pressure on prices for some time from higher costs already built into the economy."

Very little is being said, however, particularly in government circles, about one of the major causes of the inflation—namely, the power of labor unions to push up wages irrespective of whether such moves have an immediate result in the raising of prices.

The Commerce Department has reported that a slow rate of sales is expected for the remainder of 1969. This is not substantial enough to be regarded as a sign that inflation is being curbed.

The general public will feel the effects of deflation only when prices begin to go down in consumer products. Business will notice it when sales drop and profits diminish. But any objective survey of the present situation must necessarily take into account the fact that the national economy has not yet been depressed, and that whatever changes have occurred have not been of a nature to warrant fears of a recession.

A downturn in business can always come when public confidence crumbles, but there is certainly no sign as yet of such a development.

Doormen watched white tourists try to locate a taxicab.

The white tourist brings the money to the Bahamas. The flight from Florida to Freeport is 17 minutes. The roulette wheels and the slot machines spin all day and most of the night. A croupier returned from a vacation in the United States and found that his electric bill had doubled. It had averaged $55 a month, which is expensive. It was now $110.

As the government tightened its hold on the goose that lays the golden egg, the natives began to suffer. Electric rates went up for them too and they could not afford it.

Mothers bought bread at 60 cents a loaf. Beer is $8.70 a case. Rent for a two-room apartment jumped to $270 a month. A canister set that sells for $3.99 in the U.S. is labeled $13.99. One mango costs $250. A white man in his newly built house found that, when the central air conditioner remained on, his electric bill was $700 a month. He pulled the plug.

Women can buy brassieres in the U.S. for $4.50; in the Bahamas they retail for $8. Fabric that runs $3.98 a yard in Chicago costs $9 in the Bahamas. The rent for a 30-foot boat for a day's fishing is $130.

The Bahamas are squeezing everyone, including their own. "Please," a woman begged, "just put the steak in my shopping bag, but don't tell me what it costs."

If it doesn't stop, the big hotels and the gambling casinos will be taken over by soldiers, the worst crime is when a man hurts his own...

Jack Anderson Says Record of Communist Terror Tactics Looms Over Paris Talks

WASHINGTON — Among the briefing papers of the U.S. negotiators in Paris is a stark, 10 page document, entitled "Communist Terror Tactics in Vietnam," which casts a shadow over the truce talks and restrains the Americans from making careless concessions.

It presents a sober, documented account of communist purges in the North and assassinations in the South—a dark reminder of what could be expected if the communists should ever take over South Vietnam.

"Does it necessarily follow that a communist victory in South Vietnam would lead to mass arrests and wholesale executions?" This grim question is raised by the document. "Such a prediction can only be based on the past performance and present policies of the Communist party. From the 1945 'August Revolution' purges through the 1968 Hue massacre and beyond, the record is not very reassuring."

Captured enemy documents bring in daily confirmation that it is still communist policy to eliminate opposition by systematic assassination. Some captured instructions even assign assassination quotas and scold execution squads that fall behind in their murdering.

The victims, of course, are called "cruel tyrants" and "enemies of the people." However, they include women and children whose only crime is being related to government officials or sympathizers.

The document prepared for the U.S. truce team charges that the communists since 1945 have made "a very considerable effort throughout Vietnam to eliminate any actual or any potential opposition through arrests and political murder."

Massacres in North

The communist takeover in the North was followed by large scale executions, which reached massacre proportions during the 1951-56 period. Communist vengeance was first wreaked upon the landowners, but this was broadened in 1953 into a reign of terror known euphemistically as the "political struggle."

In many ways, it resembled the "cultural revolution" that has convulsed communist China. Instead of using Red Guards, however, the North Vietnamese party "enlisted the lowest elements of society to torture and murder under the motto 'give the masses a free hand to fight the reactionaries.' This wave of terror spared no class or group, and even party members fell victim to it."

An immediate result of this action, the document notes wryly, "was a greatly increased willingness to 'volunteer for citizen-labor' and to pay taxes promptly. Also a substantial part of the population became implicated in these executions, thereby removing the sole onus from the party and government. The main effect, however, was to condition the rural population for the next step, the land reform."

The North Vietnamese have put out a lot of rosy propaganda about their land redistribution. They leave unmentioned the death that accompanied it.

Declares the document: "In the implementation of this program, a norm of at least one death sentence per village was set for the first stage, and was raised to five per village in the following stage. Since statistics on the number of victims of the over-all Land Reform Campaign were never made public, estimates vary widely from 10,000 to 500,000."

"The actual figure probably lies between 100,000 and 200,000 not including the considerable number who committed suicide to avoid mass trials or who starved to death as a result of the enforced isolation of those victims, with their families, who were not permitted to leave their homes for months at a time during the campaign. By the time the Land Reform Campaign ended in 1956 virtually the entire population was in mourning. "There is no way of telling how many people subsequently fell victim to the ever-tightening police controls that were systematically fastened on North Vietnam."

The mass bloodletting in the North was accompanied by more refined slaughter in the South.

All Enemies Eliminated

"Since the late 1950's, alleges the document, 'the political terror tactics in the South have resulted in thousands of civilians being killed and tens of thousands wounded or abducted... These actions have, however, usually not been indiscriminate. They have been designed to eliminate officials, teachers, revolutionary development cadre and others who represent the government. Or they have been designed to discourage the population, both rural and urban, from cooperating with the government...'

"The Tet offensive of 1968 might well, the party believed, have resulted in a communist victory had the anticipated general uprising in the cities materialized. In anticipation of seizing power, the party reverted to some of the purge tactics it had used in 1945 and 1946 to eliminate or neutralize the opposition leadership...'

"The temporary occupation, in February 1968, of a large part of the old imperial capital, Hue, provided the world with a grim foretaste of what a total communist occupation of South Vietnam might well produce. Despite the intense fighting in the city, cadre equipped with lists of names and addresses on clipboards went about Vietnamese and foreigners who were of significance in the community."

"Often their wives and children were executed with them. In all, approximately 3,000 civilian men, women and children were executed in the Hue area. Some were beheaded and a number were buried alive after hasty executions. The victims were mainly the police, political leaders, provincial and local civil servants, anybody who worked for the Americans, and anybody who was known for his opposition to the Viet Cong."

"The Hue massacre and other similar actions would indicate that (the communists) still believe Truong Chinh's dictum: 'For a new-born revolutionary power to be lenient with counter-revolutionaries is tantamount to committing suicide.'"

Will 1970s Be Era of Political Dominance for Republicans?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

With the dawning of the politics of the '70s' just a few short months away, the prospect today is that President Nixon, old-style politician, will dominate the scene for at least two-thirds of the decade ahead.

Even though he has not yet ended the Vietnam war, licked inflation or bit deep into urban problems, the President is riding high. He could falter if he does not make substantial progress on these issues. But it might take a considerable disaster to beat him in 1972.

Of those presidents who tried, only William Howard Taft and Herbert Hoover failed in this century to win a second term — and Taft was beaten by the rare combination of two powerful opponents, Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt. Depression leveled Hoover.

Besides the natural advantage of incumbency, Nixon may not have to face an overpowering opponent. The removal from the 1972 lists of Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts after the Chappaquiddick incident brought a great sense of relief to the White House.

Moreover, the President's solid position may be substantially underscored if, as some political analysts contend, a large and enduring shift away from the Democratic party and toward the Republicans is under way.

Proof of such a turnaround can hardly be had from one election. Indeed, the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center, in its book, "Elections and the Political Order," says that it is wiser to speak of a "realigning electoral era" rather than a realigning election.

There are those who argue that Nixon, having won in 1968 with just 43 per cent of the nation's vote, is simply not popular enough to lead a move toward major party realignment and the ascendancy of the GOP into the majority status it lost in the 1930s. The Michigan experts assault that argument.

Realigning elections have not been dominated by presidential candidates who came into office on a wave of great personal popularity."

It is usually forgotten that neither Abraham Lincoln nor Franklin D. Roosevelt, now widely seen as heroic figures, enjoyed high appeal when they were first elected.

The real matter on which realignment turns, says the Survey Center, is whether the national circumstances are so drastic as to force a new orientation of party positions, if they are, then the scholars conclude that new partisan attachments "may be induced."

What about 1968 and the following 70s?

A persuasive case can be presented, though not proved until further confirming elections occur, that a long-run shift is happening.

There is reasonably general agreement among political specialists that the broad emergence of the racial issue and black voting power is a political force comparable in magnitude to the war and depression which have caused major shifts before.

This development is driving southern whites from the Democratic party and has nearly destroyed it in the South as a presidential vehicle.

$35 Million State Budget Surplus

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —

When Gov. Rockefeller talks about his state's budget, a $35 million surplus sounds great. But is it?

The real question is — how much is $35 million?

The answer is that it depends on who has it, or doesn't have it.

For example, $35 million is: — A heart-thumping bonanza, if you happen to find it in your late Aunt Minnie's attic trunk. Obviously.

— A couple of years' living expenses for Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis. Apparently.

— A mere trifle to the New York State government. Actually.

All of which is to illustrate that, when the governor talks about finishing the fiscal year with something left over in the till, you have to think of it in relative terms. By itself the word "millions" shouldn't excite anyone. It's how many millions that really matters.

First, you have to consider that the state spends more than $6.4 billion a year to keep the government going. So $35 million is only about one-half of one per cent of the total budget.

For a comparison that might strike closer to home, think of a big family — with maybe five or six children — that plans to spend $64 on the week's groceries. Mom and Dad angle their purchases carefully and have about 35 cents left over. Big deal.

That's exactly what $35 million means to a state budget of $6.4 billion.

Now, if $35 million is such a relatively insignificant sum, why should Rockefeller bother with it at all?

One of his motives in mentioning the figure was to put down Democratic claims that he is building up a $1 billion budget "cushion" to ease his reelection problems next year.

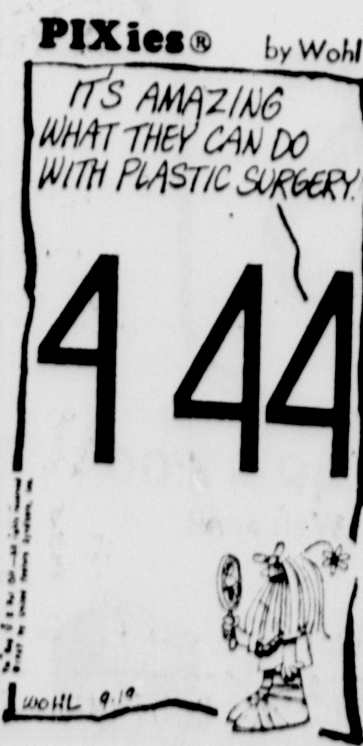

Another is that he is beginning to feel heavy pressure to relent on some of the budget economies enacted this year. Welfare officials are clamoring for $100 million. Public school districts want a few hundred million more.

New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay is plugging for massive state aid for his city's hospitals.

Clearly $35 million would hardly make a dent in those spending demands. But he could sprinkle a little around, on the theory that something is better than nothing.

So, Rockefeller really hasn't changed much from the position he took in August, when he declared that the state's cupboard is bare — as far as extra cash is concerned.

You might say that he looked in the cupboard again — and found a very small bone.

Attorney Gives His Views In Sanitary Landfill Dispute

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

Robert L. Ostertag, attorney for Orchard Hill Farms in the sanitary landfill dispute before the Red Hook Town Board, gave his views on the situation today.

"We have not yet been notified as to any decision on our application," said Ostertag to the Freeman, "and I don't know if the Town Board has fully reviewed the situation. But I feel that there are very few things to actually consider in order to give approval."

The dispute, which was brought to a head at the Town Board meeting last week, was originally started by a group of Upper Red Hook residents who felt that they did not want a one-acre landfill site containing chemical effluent in their neighborhood.

A petition was given the Town Board, and the words flew at the meeting in an attempt to reach some understanding with Orchard Hill Farms, Inc., a large pie-making concern in the Village of Red Hook. This company had made an application to the Town Board for permission to open the site on the property of a Mr. Thayer, dumping about 600 gallons of the waste product in a deep hole per day.

"What is presently being done with the effluent," we asked the attorney.

"It is becoming a real problem," he answered. "It does give off an odor when left uncovered in the village, and a man has been hired to make sporadic journeys to dump this waste. But it is not a solution that is feasible." The man in question was ascertained to be a member of the Flood Carting Company.

"The only things that should be standing in our way right now for approval are whether the form is correctly filled out for application, whether the site meets requirements, and whether there are already five dumps in the town, which there are not," said Ostertag.

"As for the operation of the dump, this has nothing to do with the approval. The town must give either approval or disapproval, according to law. Once the site becomes established, then the town would naturally be interested in how the dump is run," said the attorney.

for application, whether the site meets requirements, and whether there are already five dumps in the town, which there are not," said Ostertag.

Landmarks Association Board

Two From Northern Dutchess Elected

RHINEBECK

Richard Crowley of Rhinebeck and Charles Eggert of Red Hook were among those elected to trusteeship of the Dutchess County Landmarks Association this week.

The association has just recently been incorporated, with historical projects the main purpose of its existence. Included in this program will be Rhinebeck Historical Zoning, as proposed by architect Richard Crowley in a Freeman story this summer. Rhinebeck was chosen for this role because of the significant number of historical sites in the area and its proximity to the Hudson River. Landmark inventory throughout the county will also be undertaken. Another major project would concern itself with revitalization of Poughkeepsie, especially the older sections.

Some form of recognizable identification, such as a plaque, would be imposed on landmarks in the county. And another special project in Fishkill concerning the Van Wyck-Wharton House and the Revolutionary War encampment on Route 9 was explored under the direction of Felix Scardapane.

Kenneth Toole, assistant Dutchess County planner, is temporary chairman of the Landmarks Association. Mrs. John Smithers of Red Hook was among those named for a position on the nominating committee.

Astor Home Conference

Role of the Institution . . . a Strong Defense

RHINEBECK Dr. Morris Mayer defended the role of the institution in treating emotionally disturbed children at the 15th annual conference on the psychiatric treatment of children held at Astor Home for Children this week.

Dr. Mayer is executive director of Bellefaire and the Jewish Children's Bureau of Cleveland, Ohio. His topic was "Values in Residential Treatment and Their Applicability to Other Child-Caring Institutions."

According to Dr. George Mora, medical director at Astor, Dr. Mayer claimed that the residential treatment center with a team approach, such as that found at Astor, effectively geared itself to the individual needs of the child.

"The institution has been under attack for years," said Dr. Mora, in summing up Dr. Mayer's remarks, "because some people have felt that the child loses contact with the outside world and becomes institutionalized."

"The institution should ideally achieve a total therapeutic atmosphere," he continued.

"The success of the method depends upon the integration of the staff. An institution is not bad per se, and if properly run can benefit some children as much or more than a foster home environment."

More than 450 persons attended the conference, most of whom were child care workers. Others included, psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers from the Bureau of Child Welfare and many other agencies.

Dr. Max Talmadge, director of psychology at Astor, was chairman of the event, which is held each year at the home.

Training for Additional Volunteers

Classes Listed for Red Cross Workers

RHINEBECK American Red Cross volunteers at Northern Dutchess Hospital are involved in patient care in several ways.

A second series of classes has been scheduled to train additional volunteers, under the direction of the Poughkeepsie chapter of the Red Cross.

The five two-hour classes will begin 7:30 p.m. Oct. 14 in the Hospital Board Room. Those interested may contact Mrs. John Baker or Peggy Smith at the hospital.

Work by the Northern Dutchess Hospital Mothers' Club has completed the replacement of four cribs.

Each stainless steel crib, costing about $130, is equipped with a special transparent polyglass enclosure. This eliminates the need for "netting" the crib and gives the child freedom of movement without the danger of climbing or falling out.

The club has also donated two croupettes to be used for children with upper respiratory diseases, costing $401.65. The Mothers' Club has donated more than $2,000 to the hospital during its 1968-69 year.

Next meeting of the club will be 8 p.m. Oct. 6 at the Nurses' Residence on Montgomery Street. New members are always welcome.

The club has also donated two

WATCH FOR EXCITING BOUTIQUE GRAND OPENING!

'Optical Illusion' Seen as Crash Cause

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Apparently routine landing approach into a disaster? The report indicates the pilot of the Los Angeles-To-Boston flight could have been a victim of optical illusion. In the darkness, the runway lights appeared to blend into the lower floor on the Ohio River Valley, 400 feet below. To the pilot, it may have appeared the plane was at a higher altitude than it actually was.

The report put it this way: The pilot may have used the lights in the Ohio River Valley as a visual reference to establish his final approach altitude. But the river valley is actually 400 feet below the airport which is atop an unlighted hill rising from the valley floor.

With this illusion, the pilot leveled off his plane 400 feet over the river, instead of the airport, but was still 15 feet below the runway.

The board said the cockpit voice recorder indicated the pilot checked his altimeter at this point, realized his error, and attempted to gain altitude in the seconds before he hit the hillside.

The safety board report also said there have been two prior accidents near the site of the TWA crash. In both of those accidents, pilots claimed they saw the runway lights just before they crashed into the hillside. Last week, the Airline Pilots Association labeled the airport one of the "most dangerous" in the United States.

Seek Bulldozer, Roller

LAKE KATRINE — State police patrols were sent out today on area highways looking for a bulldozer and a power roller reported stolen during the night from a construction site off East Chester Street By-pass.

John Mayone Jr., of Glasco, contractor, who owns the heavy equipment, discovered the bulldozer and roller valued at about $10,000 missing when men reported for work. The 1969 International bulldozer is painted red. BCI Investigator Joseph Ventriglia and Trooper James Fitzgerald are investigating.

Catholics To Demolish Barricades

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Roman Catholics of Londonderry, the town where the Catholic-Protestant war erupted last month, agreed today to demolish their barricades Monday.

They will be replaced by thin white painted lines to keep the feuding Protestants and Catholics apart.

Sean Keenan, chairman of the Derry Citizens' Defense Association in the Catholic Bogside district, told newsmen after 24 hours of talks with the British Army that:

—The Northern Ireland government's largely Protestant police force will stay out of Bogside.

—Military police will not try to arrest anyone in Bogside for anything done before the barricades come down.

—Military police will be allowed to enter the area in answer to emergency calls, but other troops will stay out.

—The Bogside's vigilante police force will continue to operate in the district.

The army said 39 barriers had been taken down in the past two days in Belfast.

Administration Extends Health Program Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has extended its controversial health program cutbacks to five projects that apply research gains to patient treatment for chronic diseases, including cancer.

Budget authorities in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have ordered drastic cuts this year, and termination next year, of the chronic disease programs involving cancer, respiratory ailments, diabetes, arthritis, heart and stroke and neurological and sensory disorders.

Dr. Stanley W. Olson, director of HEW's regional medical programs service, confirmed that five of eight units in his chronic disease division will lose more than half of their funds this year. Current plans are to drop them next year at a savings of $9.7 million, he said.

The latest cuts follow an announcement of plans by the National Institutes of Health to pare 5 to 10 per cent from medical research outlays and to eliminate up to 19 small clinical research centers across the country.

The new budget restrictions are expected to increase already vocal protests from the medical community and some congressional leaders.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Senate's No. 2 Democrat, spoke out against medical program cutbacks Thursday night in a speech in Boston. "The impact of the cuts will be felt in medical schools, universities and research centers throughout the nation," Kennedy said.

The retrenchment in government health programs results from President Nixon's order to chop $3.5 billion from the federal budget in the fight against inflation.

The latest five affected units are the major source of federal funding for the transfer of research breakthroughs in chronic diseases to everyday medical practice, Olson said.

The cancer control program, for example, has arranged for more than 1.3 million women in the past 3½ years to receive the latest in diagnostic tests for tumors.

Government sources say the American Academy of General Practice probably will have to end the cancer-test program if federal support is withdrawn.

Three units in the division of chronic disease programs will remain.

They are the kidney disease control program, the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, and the nutrition program.

'Body Stealing' Charged to State Youth

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — A youth has been charged with "body stealing" for allegedly taking a skull from the tomb of a local Revolutionary War officer.

Allen L. Lambert, 19, of Little Falls, was ordered held in lieu of bail Thursday on the seldom-made charge, under the state's public health law.

State police said that Lambert broke into the tomb, located in a deserted field near here that once held a mansion, several times during the summer.

Although Colonel Beardsley was buried there, police declined to say whether the skull was his or one of several relatives entombed with him.

The tomb has been badly damaged by vandals in the past several years, from bars surrounding it have been bent or removed and the interior "torn apart," one area resident said.

It was believed that no burials had taken place at the tomb for at least 100 years, but descendants occasionally visit the grounds and it remains private property. A local legend among children is that the place is haunted.

Several small, run-down buildings are the only structures nearby. The former mansion, which resembles a castle and was brought over brick-by-brick from Europe, has been moved to St. Johnsville, about 15 miles away, where it is used as a restaurant and bar.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderate turnover.

Some analysts believe that Thursday's strong showing might be an indication that the market is building a base for a short term rally. However, normal pre-weekend evening pressures and a lack of constructive news could be major obstacles at this point.

Santa Rosa Bank Robbed of $1,500 By Telephone

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI) — A branch of Bank of America was robbed of $1,500 Thursday by telephone.

Branch manager Steven Vinella told police he received a call that his wife had been kidnapped and would be harmed unless he brought money.

Vinella said he scooped $1,500 out of the cashier's drawer, followed directions left under the windshield wiper of his car, and dropped the money in a bag next to a mail box five miles away.

Police put out an all points bulletin for two men in dark glasses and a dark car who were reportedly seen in the vicinity at the time.

Vinella's wife was unharmed.

$107 Is Average Increase For the 1970 Chrysler Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler has emulated Ford in a charge against General Motors' superior market position with a proven sales tool: lower car prices. Chrysler announced 1970 model sticker prices Thursday averaging $107 more than for 1969 cars. Ford announced its average hike of $108 the day before and GM posted an average $123 increase last week.

In preparation for the scramble in the market place, the nation's automakers scheduled their highest rate of output since late January. The trade publication Automotive News reported 193,846 new cars were being assembled this week.

All of Chrysler's seven U.S. assembly plants, four of Ford's 16 and one of GM's 23 were put on overtime for Saturday.

The manufacturers computed their average price increases by using a formula which takes into consideration the higher sales of lower priced cars. The new prices include cost of delivery, dealer preparation and taxes.

A year ago Chrysler rolled back from an average increase per car of $89 to $55 after Ford's increase was set at $52, GM's at $52 and American Motors' at $43. Some Chrysler dealers felt the cutback should have been greater for competitive reasons.

American Motors has not announced 1970 prices. It has accounted for about 3 per cent of sales by the four U.S. automakers so far this year.

Chrysler continued its warranty program which calls for power train coverage for five years or 50,000 miles plus coverage for the entire car of one year or 12,000 miles.

GM offers much the same program. Ford has a one year, unlimited mileage warranty for the entire car and an optional plan for the power train. For an added $15, a Ford buyer can get five years or 50,000 coverage on his engine, transmission and rear axle.

Chrysler, like the others, cited increasing costs and taxes in announcing the price hikes, which are the highest in recent years.

A year ago Chrysler held a market share of about 18 per cent among the four American automakers. Apparently on the assumption that that share would increase, the company ordered high production for the 1969 models.

But by April Chrysler's chocking inventory. Many vacant lots around Detroit were jammed with Plymouths, Dodges and Chryslers.

By the end of April Chrysler's American market share had slipped to 16.8 per cent compared to a near-record high of 18.7 a year earlier.

At the end of June the corporation announced its profits for the first six months of 1969 were down by half from a year earlier.

The lowest priced car in the Chrysler lineup for 1970 is the 6-cylinder Plymouth Duster which carries a manufacturer's suggested price—commonly called sticker price—of $2,172.

Last year the same car cost $2,094.

Day Care Center Sale On Tuesday

A toy and gift sale will be sponsored by the parents organization of the Rondout Day Care Center next week in an effort to raise funds for continued operation of the center.

The sale will be held at the school, 16 Grove Street, at the site of the new Children's Home facilities, Tuesday 8:30 p.m. The sale will be open to the public and free refreshments will be provided.

The sale is one of several fund-raising events planned by the parents to meet requirements for a 20 per cent in-kind contribution from the community in order that the day care center may receive government funds for operation. Volunteer services and cash are needed to meet the $12,000 community commitment for this year.

Fall session of the day care center is well underway with many new enrollees age three to five, mainly from the Rondout area. Hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Breakfast, lunch and two snacks are provided during the day's activities.

Newly elected officers of the parents organization are Mrs. Frieda Whipple, president; Richard Rowles, vice-president; Mrs. Frances Jackson, secretary and Mrs. Margaret Davis, treasurer.

Five Injured In Two-Car Kingston Crash

Five persons were taken to Benedictine Hospital shortly after 6:45 p.m. Thursday following a two-car accident on East Chester at Lincoln Street. One driver was cited by police.

The vehicles were operated by 16-year-old Michael A. Tyrrell of RFD 1, Box 164, Kingston and Lester C. Jansen, 31, of Creek Locks Road, Creek Locks. Police issued a summons to Jansen for unsafe tires.

Jansen received possible back injuries. Others taken to the hospital by Doctors Ambulance were Dolores Jansen, 21, who sustained possible head injuries; Georgiana Bagley, 17, of 109 Yarmouth Street, admitted for possible head injuries and Louis Hasbrouck, 18, of 116 Hooker Street, back and right arm injuries. Three-year-old Dolores Jansen also was taken to the hospital for examination.

Tyrrell was traveling on East Chester Street and Jansen was driving along Lincoln Street when the vehicles collided at the intersection, police said.

Elevated Train Rams Another, 173 Injured

CHICAGO (AP) — An elevated train loaded with homebound passengers rammed the rear of another train at the height of the evening rush hour Thursday, injuring 273.

Three cars were derailed, one of them landing on its side. No cars fell into the street 25 feet below.

Scores were taken to hospitals, but only eight were found to have suffered more than superficial injury.

The fire department helicopters shuttled the injured to emergency wards. Firemen lowered passengers to the street with ladders and mobile cranes.

A spokesman for the Chicago Transit Authority said the accident, at 40th Street and Indiana Avenue, occurred after mechanical failure halted one train. The crash stopped traffic on the elevated from 35th Street south for several hours. Shuttle buses picked up the stranded passengers.

Better Shopper Program Opens

A "Be A Better Shopper" program, jointly sponsored by Ulster County Community College and the Home Economics Division of the Extension Service Association of Ulster County, will open on Wednesday night, Oct. 1, at the College's Stone Ridge campus, Ronald A. Koster, the UCCC Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

The non-credit course also will meet on two following Wednesday nights, Oct. 8 and 15. The hours for all three sessions are 8 to 10 o'clock.

The course is designed to show shoppers how to save money, according to Mr. Koster, and is a unique approach to supermarket shopping.

He said it is designed to develop and improve shopping skills and to point out the values and rewards of planned spending. It also will emphasize the importance of participation by all family members in deciding on money matters.

The course will be an educational happening that will involve the participants in order to reinforce the concepts of the program and to achieve a balance between viewing and doing.

The course will cover supermarket specials, store brands versus national brands, labels and packaging, size and cost relationships, record keeping, trading stamps and buying beef, pork and poultry to get more meat for your money.

There is a $2 registration fee to take the course. Interested persons should contact the Home Economics Division of the Ulster County Cooperative Extension Service or the Office of Continuing Education at the College.

USDA Food Buys Are Released

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

UDA's food experts report that food shoppers this weekend will find ample displays of meat and poultry and adequate stocks of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food store and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys are expected to be featured in all areas. Beef cuts that should be in excellent supply include ground beef, liver, roasts, steaks, and stew meat. Smoked picnics, Boston butts, and bacon are the pork items most likely to be abundantly available while fresh pork cuts in this category are chops and roasts. Fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior, are marine sardine, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions.

Fresh vegetables in best supply are cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes, and tomatoes. Apples and grapes are the most abundant fruits.

Other foods on USDA's plentiful food list for September are peanuts and peanut products, dried split peas, limes, and pears.

Sex Education? CSAA Has Answers

NEW YORK (UPI) — When talk of sex education hoists blood pressures at PTA, church coffee hours or on the gossip circuit, here's a bit of information that might cool things:

The responsibility for children's sex education lies primarily in the home.

Who says so? Authorities at the Child Study Association of America CSAA, a voluntary agency dedicated for nearly a century to improving the quality of family and community living for parents and children.

For nearly a quarter of a century its "When Children Ask About Sex" booklet has been making that "home" point about bird and bee talk. Just out is a revision of this booklet — the first in 16 years. The basic premise of the old and new pamphlet remain the same, according to James S. Ottenberg, executive director.

It is: That a child's sexual development is part of total growth and not a separate compartment of his life, that his questions about sex ought to be answered honestly and in terms appropriate to his age and needs.

The revised edition takes into account what Ottenberg described as profound changes in contemporary culture.

These include: — Improved contraceptives and their availability.

The adoption of sex education in many school rooms nationwide "makes it more necessary than ever that parents themselves keep well informed," Ottenberg said.

The booklet, available from the association 9 East 89th Street, New York, N.Y. for 50 cents, contains suggestions for dealing with sex questions. "Moral judgments are beyond the scope of this booklet," Ottenberg said. "Each parent must make his own judgment . . . about what moral values he wishes to communicate to his children."

Now hear that — all you parents, who as I thought we had it made after baby was housebroken!

YW CLUB OPENS SEASON — The Business and Professional Women's Club of the YWCA held its first meeting of the fall season Wednesday, Sept. 17 at the YW on Clinton Avenue. Among those at the speakers' table were (L-R) Mrs. Lucile Davidson, president; Mrs. Jessie Wolfenstein, vice president; Orvil Norman, guest speaker; and Miss Alice Hunter, treasurer. Facts About Women Drivers

NEW YORK (UPI) — "When she was good, she was very good and when she was bad, she was horrid."

Familiar words of a nursery rhyme, yes. But they also aptly describe some women automobile drivers, according to a computer-analyzed study of drivers of both sexes and all driving age groups.

Anytime a man makes a remark about "women drivers, ugh!" you can toss this finding at him — a larger percentage of men than women had over 10 violations and the "safest" group appears to be women 16-25 years; they recorded fewer violations than any other age group.

"Test results are not going to contribute to peace between the sexes," said Dr. Harry J. Woehr, a clinical psychologist, who supervised the testing of more than 7,000 drivers. "Men fancy themselves safer drivers than women. But the true meaning of this not unexpected male assessment may be more flattering to women than might ordinarily be inferred . . . women have a better knowledge of their limitations than men."

Woehr heads a firm of management and consulting psychologists in Philadelphia.

The tests were given at the New York Automobile Show in April and the results just released. The Pirelli Tire Corp. sponsored them in the interests of safer driving.

Woehr said the study showed that "contrary to popular opinion, alertness is not the most important factor in maintaining a safe driving record." On the basis of test information, "We can only conclude that alert drivers do not necessarily have the best driving record with regard to violations. Obviously alertness is a desirable trait. But traffic violations are related more significantly to attitude, mood and personal outlook than to the alertness aspect."

Weddings Are Announced

Miss Anne Therese Karkowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Karkowski of St. Remy, exchanged marriage vows with Granville George Bullock II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Granville George Bullock Jr., of Brooklyn, on September 13, 1969 at 4 p.m. in the Holy Name Church, Wilbur.

The Rev. John Russell was the officiating clergyman. Wayne Cusher was organist and the bridegroom's uncle, Alfred Cibelli, sang traditional selections.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an A-line gown of pea acetate with accents of pearl Chantilly lace scallops. The wattleau cathedral train was removable and the bride's veil of imported silk illusion was shirred to a starlight headpiece. The bride carried Juliet bridal bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and English ivy.

Miss Diane Karkowski of Manhattan was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a turquoise empire styled gown with short sleeves, inverted pleat and rounded neckline. Her hand bouquet consisted of yellow and white pompons with white roses.

Miss Janet Karkowski of St. Remy and Miss Paulette Karkowski of Manhattan were bridesmaids for their sister. They wore green empire styled gowns of satin and carried hand bouquets of yellow and white pompons with maize yellow ribbon.

Assunta Bullock, sister of the bridegroom, was the flower girl in an aqua empire styled gown of satin. She carried a small colonial nosegay of yellow and white pompons.

Alfred Bullock of Brooklyn was best man for his brother. Ushering were Francis Louis Bullock of Brooklyn, brother of the bridegroom, and Ludwig J. Cibelli of Garden City, cousin of the bridegroom.

Guests were entertained at a reception given in The Capri 400 in Port Ewen.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High and attended UCCU and is now employed by Silverline Transportation Corp.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock will be at home at 2028 Stuart Street, Brooklyn.

Miss Janis Cheryl Strang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Strang, 2 Colonial Court, Ballston Lake, wed Bruce Dvane Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jansen of 105 Hone Street, Kingston.

The wedding took place Saturday, Sept. 13 at 2 p.m. in Grace Community Church, Lake Katrine with the Rev. Robert C. Miller officiating. Organist was Mrs. Robert C. Miller and soloist was Miss Rita Horvers.

The altar was decorated with white flowers. Mr. Strang gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white matt satin empire styled gown with A-lines and skimmer skirt, long chapel train, Sabrina neckline accented with Alencon lace appliques and cultured seed pearls. Wrist length cuture sleeves tapered to points. She also wore a princess crown with rose petals. Borrois and cultured seed pearls to which was attached a bouffant veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white carnations and daisies.

Mrs. Ellen Hrebluk of Connelly was matron of honor. She wore an empire gown of powder blue chiffon with an accent of blue daisies on dotted white venise lace. She also wore a multi-ribboned bow and carried a cascade of multi-colored carnations and daisies.

Miss Nancy Nanna of Kingston, Miss Faith Redmond of Stone Ridge and Miss Mariann Davis of Kingston were the attendants. Their gowns were styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant in colors of orchid, yellow and mint green respectively. They all carried a cascade of multi-colored carnations.

Miss Jodi Lynn Jansen, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl. Her gown was similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in powder blue. She carried a white basket of carnations and daisies.

Garry Strang of Wallkill, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushering were Warren Jansen and James Jansen of Kingston, brothers of the bride, and Judson Hornbeck of Port Ewen. Randy Lee Jansen, the bridegroom's nephew was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Elmer's Inn in Ruby for 130 guests.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by the New York Telephone Company in Kingston. Her husband attended Kingston High School and served four years with the U.S. Navy. He is employed as a paid fireman in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jansen will reside at 185 Elmendorf Street, Kingston.

Munch Tempting Muffins for Lunch

Piping hot muffins tucked into a napkin-lined basket are a welcome sight at meal time. And they're such a versatile quick bread treat! Muffins are delicious partners for luncheon soups and salads, flavorful accompaniments for heartier meals and they make breakfast a special occasion. These Cheese 'N Bacon Oatmeal Muffins are great flavor mates for quick tomato soup at lunch time — a change from the familiar grilled cheese sandwich-tomato soup duo. The flavor combination is reminiscent of this popular pair, but the shapes and textures are interestingly different. Cheese 'N Bacon Oatmeal Muffins offer more substantial protein than do most quick breads. Rolled oats, cheese and bacon all contribute this important nutrient, as do the egg and buttermilk. Rolled oats also give the muffins a pleasing, slightly chewy texture.

Hot buttered muffins, mugs of soup, crisp vegetable relishes and banana-orange gelatin dessert make a most satisfying and colorful luncheon menu — idea for school days or Saturdays.

Cheese 'N Bacon Oatmeal Muffins

Makes 12 muffins

- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 3/4 cup grated American cheese
- 4 slices bacon, cooked, drained and crumbled
- 1 egg, beaten
- 3/4 cup buttermilk

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and sugar into bowl. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats, cheese and bacon. Add beaten egg and buttermilk, stirring only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill greased muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) about 15 minutes.

TEMPTING CHEESE 'N BACON OATMEAL MUFFINS, protein-packed quick breads, team up with soups or salads for nourishing lunch menus.

Cookies

Baked for Traveling

When off-to-school also means away from home, cookies that travel well become very important. A box of mother's cookies seem to help cure the homesickness that is bound to develop about eight to 10 days after departure.

These recipes have only two steps in the preparation and each makes a big pan of cookies. The economical Swift'ning Shortening needs no creaming and mixes quickly with the other ingredients. The results are rich moist cookies that stay fresh even though it takes them several days to get to their destination. Even the frosting is easy to mix and are as packable as the cookies.

PEANUT CRUNCH BARS

Yield: Open 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan.

- 1/2 cup Swift'ning Shortening
- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup corn flakes
- 1 cup Spanish peanuts
- 1/2 cup oatmeal

Combine shortening, sugar, flour, soda, baking powder, eggs, water and vanilla. Beat for 2 minutes. Fold in corn flakes, peanuts and oatmeal. Spread evenly in greased 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Spread when cool with orange frosting.

PUMPKIN NUT BARS

Yield: One 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan.

- 1/2 cup Swift'ning Shortening
- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2/3 cup pumpkin
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Combine all ingredients except nuts in large mixing bowl. Beat for 2 minutes with electric mixer at medium speed. Fold in nuts. Spread evenly in a 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Spread when cool with orange frosting.

Orange Frosting: Blend until smooth 2 tablespoons Swift'ning Shortening, 1 1/2 cups powdered sugar sifted, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel and 2 tablespoons orange juice. Makes about 1 cupful.

VFW Auxiliary Plans Variety Of Projects, Party for Seniors

SAUGERTIES to treat the senior citizens. Full details to be announced.

Then Senior Citizens of Saugerties will be feted with a Thanksgiving party according to plans formulated at a recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW. It was voted to join with the VFW Past Presidents

Republicans Slate Picnic Social Sunday, Sept. 28

The fourth annual Republican Club Picnic slated for Cantine Field on Sunday, Sept. 28 will be festive rather than political with four musical groups featured and the Golden Agers as guests of the club.

The popular newly formed Saugerties singing group Up With People some 60 strong will make their first Saugerties appearance. Fred Russell and his Springtime Mountaineers will provide the western motif. David Sawitz and his piano accordion will also entertain. For the younger set, the combo Summer Heat has been engaged. Chairman Jack Bartells announced that tickets are moving at a brisk pace, but there are still some available in many business places in town as well as from club members and Town Committeemen. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult. There will be plenty to drink and eat for everyone during the entire afternoon. Bartells noted that

Disagreement In Conservative Party Release

SAUGERTIES Frank Greimel, Saugerties Conservative chairman said, "a recent statement made by a small number of party members did not present the complete picture of what happened at our recently held Town Committee meeting."

"First," continued Greimel, "let me say that a majority of the members as well as myself who were present at the meeting all believe that good government must be based on logic and reason and it is because of this that all of the recommendations of the nominating committee were not accepted."

In her presentation, Mrs. Frances B. Everts chairman of the nominating committee said of her committee's choice for town supervisor "That he has a twinkle in his eye, makes a nice appearance and is a Republican." If this represents logic and reason to the chairman of the nominating committee then it is no wonder that the people present voted against her recommendation. It is also interesting to note that at no time did the chairman of the committee suggest that they investigate the record of incumbent supervisor Michael Schovel. This again makes one ask, where is the logic and reason?

Later it was said of the incumbent councilman seeking reelection that he was shy and reserved, an honest man and of course a Republican. We did not question his honesty; however his record as a councilman does point out the fact that he is indeed very shy and extremely reserved, for he has contributed very little since becoming a member of the Town Board.

It is very gracious of Mrs. Everts to say that her committee will support the remaining candidates on the town ticket, all of which are Republicans.

Finally we were told that the Conservative Party was formed to be the right arm of the Republican Party. Since the arm is a part of the main body it would stand to reason that in order to be the right arm of a political party you must be a member of that group.

Our New York headquarters does state however that the Conservative party will endorse all Republican and Democratic candidates who stand behind conservative principles.

Let me urge the voters in Saugerties to vote ROW C this November to insure the election of candidates who will represent all the people in Saugerties and not just the party faction they represent, Greimel concluded.

EDWARD GORMLEY

Starts Campaign For Shandaken Supervisor Post

PHENICIA Edward Gormley of Phenicia today announced the start of his campaign for election to the Shandaken supervisor post on the Democratic ticket.

Gormley, a life insurance company representative for the past five years, said "there is a crying need for certain reappraisals and adjustments in the operation of local government in the town of Shandaken."

The Democratic candidate said "it is the time that some progressive attitudes were taken toward the present day conditions that exist in our town. There is a need for a better and expanded program to benefit all of our residents and taxpayers, young and old."

Tax Assessments Unfair Claims Dem Candidate

WOODSTOCK "I have known for years that tax assessments in the Town of Woodstock have been unfair," Michael J. Boyle, Democratic candidate for town supervisor, said this week.

"After discussing tax assessments with residents throughout our district, and examining the tax books, I am shocked at how unfair assessments in Woodstock are. We have numerous properties in our township that haven't been assessed in years, yet, some homes have been assessed two or three times in recent years because of resale. Further, it is unfair to base assessments only on the recorded tax stamps. Too often the amount of tax stamps recorded are not indicative of the true market value."

Boyle, also told of a group of 51 families from Zena with the aid of a Kingston attorney and a professional assessor, who took Woodstock to task on assessments and had their 13 percent assessments reduced to eight and one-half percent. This amounts to a one-third reduction in school and town taxes for these families this year.

Boyle then asked, "How large will the next group be that goes to legal means to attain fair assessments?"

"Unless fair assessments are brought about properly we may have our equalization rate drop, causing all of us to pay a greater burden of taxes."

Boyle also stated that "We should implement a plan of reassessing all homes and properties by inspection on a rotating basis. As each home or property is reassessed, it would be put on the bottom of the list for reassessment and the date of the last assessment recorded. I feel that a rotational system would be the most feasible and economical technique to bring about fair assessments for all."

This Three-Bedroom Rancher Is Efficient and Comfortable

Today's design is an excellent example of a three-bedroom ranch-type dwelling with features desired by most prospective homeowners.

The large living room which opens to the dining area expresses the theme of expansiveness which carries through to the other areas of the house to form an efficient and comfortable pattern. All three bedrooms are aligned at the left side with plenty of wall space to ease the problem of furniture arrangement.

Of note is the front foyer—that affords unusual freedom of access to all points without the necessity of traffic through the living room. In keeping with the general styling of "The Vital" is an "L" shape utility type kitchen with breakfast area and lavatory adjacent to the rear service door.

The exterior shows a brick planter with reverse board and batten over the front gable, a large corner picture window at the living room and stock wood shingles all around.

This plan has 1,400 square feet of living space and 320 additional square feet of covered porch and garage.

Plans are available showing detail for construction with wood, stone, brick or block and may be obtained at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon.

Common Sense Needed For Fire Prevention

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Last year, property losses from fire damage in the United States were more than $2 billion, but, vastly more important, entire families were burned to death because of carelessness or ignorance.

People do foolish things. ... They cook in a fireplace and then leave dying embers in it that can ignite the grease. ... They let youngsters, who are at home alone, cook bacon and other greasy foods. ... Many parents leave small children at home with portable heat stoves that can be knocked over. ... They keep inflammable cloths and chemicals in the cellar or in closets.

One house was destroyed by fire when a 12-year-old was asked to remove ashes from a fireplace and he left the paper bag of hot ashes on the wooden porch.

A housewife threw a dry Christmas tree into a fireplace and caused an explosion and fire that seriously injured her and destroyed the home.

Two people in a trailer were asphyxiated by fire in a charcoal burner used to keep warm. It used up the available oxygen.

In dry weather, people burn papers, leaves and brush outdoors and leave fire untended. Family awareness of fire should center on common-sense precautions. Local fire departments should be encouraged to instruct communities in the dangers connected with fires and give warnings on how they can get started.

Many fire departments team up with local groups to help along these lines. Last year, in some areas, empty coffee cans were collected by young people and fire labels were affixed to them carrying instructions for extinguishing fires, safety tips and space for recording phone numbers. The promotion included filling the pail with baking soda, which can be thrown on a kitchen fire in an emergency. The drive was so successful that other groups will be actively engaged in providing such fire information this year.

Experts suggest these precautions to keep the cooking area safe from fire. ... If the phone or doorbell rings when you are cooking, do not leave broiling or frying food without first turning off the heat. ... If a skillet blazes, leave it where it is. In moving it, the hot grease might spill, spreading the fire and burning you.

Water will make the grease splatter and the fire spread, so avoid using it on a grease fire. ... If you are throwing garbage into an incinerator, be sure that you do not have a quantity of flour in it which might explode—one woman lost her eyebrows and hair this way. ... The long hair back while cooking.

Experts recommend tossing handfuls of baking soda at the base of a stove fire, when heated, the soda creates carbon dioxide gas which smothers the fire. ... If the family has a wall fire extinguisher in the kitchen, check the pressure gauge on it from time to time.

With every American responsible for seven pounds of garbage per day, we're still asking why is it we're not making more of an effort to convert this material into an organic compost for growing better plants and as an anti-pollution measure. One way to do this is to make your own compost pile. Saves leaves, grass clippings, table scraps, sawdust, etc. and put them on the compost.

The Freeman does not answer the Green Thumb mail. For information write: George Abraham The Green Thumb Naples, N. Y. 14512

Many large cities have taken the step to convert garbage into compost. One firm in Houston, Texas takes municipal solid wastes and converts it into a fine material for adding to our land. The sale manager of Metro-ganic Sales Co. in Houston wrote me: "We have a contract with the City of Houston to take 350 tons of garbage per day for 20 years. In our process we separate the paper from the garbage and this is sold to the paper industry. The tin cans are separated and sold to the copper mines in the West for a catalyst in smelting operations. The glass is extracted, ground, pulverized and sold as a thickening agent in asphalt, and we are also experimenting with it as a usage in reflector paints. The rags are separated and shipped to different paper companies to be used in the manufacture of paper.

"Plastics are being taken out and are landfilled. Our product is moistened 50 per cent with pure water so that it will start its composting reaction. There is no chance of contamination. Our product is cured for eight days at 180 degrees. F."

P.S. I've tried their human garbage compost material and think it is excellent for any type of soil. Wouldn't it be great if we could all do this and eliminate fly-infested landfill dumps, where there are 75,000 flies for every foot of garbage?

Answer: I think I'd seed it down. It's such a small area and will take little time to get seed started. Sod costs more than seeding for the same area. A lot of folks are misled into thinking they can get an "instant lawn" with less soil preparation than by seeding. Sod cannot be successful on a hard, packed soil any better than can seed. A loosened and fertilized soilbed is important in either case. It takes sod about six weeks to take hold, and it must be watered regularly. A seedling doesn't have to be watered unless the seed has just started and plants are tiny.

Autumn Is Good Time To Plan a New House

Fall is a good time to plan a house that you plan to build in spring. There is opportunity to size up the site and to make unhurried decisions. The goody-boody part of it enable you to change the plans all winter long, if you like. What prospective home owner doesn't enjoy doing that? And if you do not have the opportunity, it might be frustrating.

A family with land in a posh area wants to know whether they should build a little house in the neighborhood or sell the land and move to another area. The family will not be in a position to maintain the large acreage in appropriate style, even if they do build on the site. Two well-landscaped houses that adjoin their property are three times the size of the one they would plan, and they would be sandwiched in the middle.

This family is aware that they would be little fish in a muddy puddle, and that probably they wouldn't be happy in their little home. Architects usually suggest building a house that will complement the site. There is no reason, of course, why the house can't be small. But it should be an aesthetic addition to the community, and one really has an obligation to maintain the land in proper style.

Another family's house problem is a traditional vs modern one. They have land in a Colonial area, but their hearts are set on a modern house.

A stark modern house would rattle the timbers in the neighborhood, no doubt, but it must be judged in relation to the other houses in the area. It might be screened from view and not be a shocker.

The solution might lie in some of the newer contemporary designs that blend in with Colonial architecture. It is a fabulous look, and it is so perfectly integrated into its site that it seems to belong, no matter what the architecture of the area.

To a great extent, country architecture is changing to accommodate special interests. It isn't all Colonial. In many instances, contemporary exterior designs resemble architecture of old because there are solidifying aspects — heavy shingles and roof lines that are not strictly modern. Yet, there are wide expanses of glass, sliding doors and other features that are truly modern.

Occasionally, one sees a stark modern house that seems perfectly attuned to its Colonial surroundings. These houses of ten are built into the natural rock setting. There is one drawback. For the average person, such houses are high priced. In choosing a house for your site, you may be limited architecturally by the site.

If it is a good-sized corner lot, you may do pretty much what you like. A long slender piece of property can be a miserable site to build on, if you have dreams of a ranch-style house. You are limited more or less to a two-story house.

Another nightmare is the land parcel with an odd shape, particularly one that is narrow in front and wider at the rear.

A good house designer might pull off something spectacular in meeting this challenge. You might have a house built on two or three levels that would be smashing. People often get their greatest inspirations from coping with such problems, and the house might prove to be more of a conversation piece than any other house they could build.

Blasts Big Dipper

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — A circular section of the desert floor 200 feet in diameter collapsed Wednesday above the point where a huge underground nuclear blast displaced 10 million tons of rock.

The Atomic Energy Commission said no radiation leaked into the atmosphere when the earth settled 15 to 20 feet below the surface of the mesa at ground zero.

Aftershocks from the test Tuesday still jiggled seismographs today. The tiny tremors were expected to continue for several weeks.

WILLIE'S HURTIN' — The Giants' Willie Horton looks very pained as he hits the ground after taking terrific cut and missing ball thrown by Houston Astros pitcher Denny Lee. He was gunning for home run No. 600. He complained of not feeling well in third inning and was lifted. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Sam Calls Reserves To Check British

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI) — The United States was on the unusual short end of the score entering today's second stage of the 18th Ryder Cup golf matches against Britain.

Only twice before in the history of the biennial event inaugurated in 1927 have the Americans trailed after Thursday's opening foursomes. The last time was in 1949, Britain also led in 1933 when it went on to record one of the three victories achieved in 17 at the time this time the Yankees on trail 4-3 with one match halved. With the "alternate shots" matches—foreign to virtually all American players—behind them, the invaders felt more confident. In the four ball matches the competitors each play their own ball and the better ball scores is recorded. halved following the morning session. Snead, 57, had hoped to keep his big "guns" in reserve for the fourballs and Saturday's singles but the situation called for decisive measures and whistling Sam's actions brought results.

Americans all but swept the afternoon four matches with only "U.S.-trained" Tony Jacklin, the British open champion, and Peter Townsend—preventing a shutout. Jacklin and Townsend also won their morning match and the only players on either side going into today's session with two victories.

Seaver Kept Metsies Warm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On a cold September night in Canada, Manager Gil Hodges and his New York Mets were thankful they had their Tom Seaver around to keep them warm.

The brilliant young right-hander kept the red-hot Mets pennant drive burning brightly with a five-hit shutout in a 2-0 victory over Montreal Thursday night that helped New York boost its lead back to five games in the National League east.

"I had to work fast in the last couple of innings because I started to feel the cold," said Seaver of the 50 degree weather that was almost as cold as the Mets' only serious challenger, the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs dropped a 5-3 decision to Philadelphia in an afternoon game—their 12th setback in 15 games—in falling six games back of New York in the loss column. The Mets' magic number for clinching the divisional title was reduced to eight. Meanwhile, the West Division race remained as scrambled as ever as Los Angeles knocked Atlanta out of first place with a 5-2 victory and San Francisco took over the top spot by beating Houston 9-3.

The Giants, however, held only a half game lead over the Dodgers and the Braves, while fourth-place Cincinnati is just two games off the pace despite a 7-1 loss at San Diego.

St. Louis nipped Pittsburgh 8-7 in the other NL game.

In the American League, Kansas City stopped Oakland 6-1; California defeated Minnesota 6-2; Cleveland edged Detroit 6-4; New York slipped past Washington 4-2; and Baltimore won the first game of a double-header 6-4, before losing 6-0 to Boston.

Seaver struck out nine in increasing his season total to 200 and kept the five hits well spaced in adding another chapter to the Mets' fantastic pitching during their pennant drive.

Seaver, who won his eighth straight pushing his record to 23-7, and Jerry Koosman, who shutout the Expos the night before, have been the mainstays of a staff that has now produced 11 shutouts in New York's last 35 games.

Mets pitchers haven't yielded a home run in the last 22 games.

During that span, the Mets have won 29 of 36 games—including 13 of their last 14—in roaring from 9½ games back of the Cubs on Aug. 13 to their present comfortable lead.

"They're determined. They believe in themselves," said Hodges. "They're playing better baseball defensively. We're getting good pitching and they have developed confidence and a great attitude."

Ed Kranepool gave Seaver all the help he needed with an RBI single in the first and a solo homer in the sixth, his 11th of the season.

About the only one who isn't conceding the title to the Mets is Cub boss Leo Durocher.

"I'm not going to give up, I'll tell you that," barked Durocher after Cookie Rojas' homer in the eighth touched off a three-run rally that gave the Phils their victory. "This thing isn't over yet. We just have to go out and challenge the Cardinals (the Cubs' next foe) and play like hell."

Jack Hiatt slammed a three-run homer and a run-scoring single to power the Giants past Houston. But the Giants had to wait some eight hours, until the Dodgers beat Atlanta, to claim solo possession of first place.

Rookie Ted Sizemore's bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning and Jim Lefebvre's single keyed a four-run Dodger sixth that produced the triumph.

Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the second, his 21st, was the only damage off winner Don Sutton, 17-15.

Rookie Clay Kirby, 6-19, scattered nine hits in beating Cincinnati for the third time in five decisions this season.

Jose Arcia backed him with four hits, including an RBI double that touched off a six-run Padre fifth. Roberto Pena had a two-run single and Nate Colbert an RBI single, while pitcher Dennis Ribant walked in one run and another scored on a passed ball in the big inning.

LITTLE BROWN JUG—Laverne Hanover, driven by Billy Haughton, streaks past the finish line of 24th annual Little Brown Jug with 2 1/2 length lead to win the $109,731 classic. It was Haughton's 4th Jug victory and colt ran the mile in 2:00 2/5. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The Fourth Jug For Haughton

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI)—Billy Haughton, the 45-year-old racing millionaire from Oyster Bay Cove, N.Y., has driven an unprecedented four Little Brown Jug winners, including back-to-back champions in Rum Customer last year and Laverne Hanover Thursday.

How does he compare the two three-day races?

Laverne Hanover is much better. He's more consistent. He's good week after week.

That's high praise for the son of Tar Heel, because Rum Customer can't exactly be classified as a second-rate horse.

As a three-year-old last year, Rum Customer captured the triple crown of pacing with wins at the Messenger Stakes, Little Brown Jug and Cane Futurity.

Rated an overwhelming 1-9 favorite in the eight-horse raceoff Thursday, Laverne Hanover staged his typical come-from-behind rally for a 1-2 length win over Kat Byrd and Nardins Grand Slam.

Laverne Hanover was clocked in 2:00 2/5 for the mile, a showdown which boosted the speedy colt's season earnings to $232,922. The win, his 17th in 23 starts, was worth $43,892.52 for owner Thomas W. Murphy Jr. of New York City. He won 22 of 23 starts and $180,030 as a two-year-old.

He qualified for the finals by capturing the Jug's second division in 2:00 4/5. Again it was a come-from-behind effort, with the outside lane serving as an expressway.

Lightning Wave, a 12-1 longshot, staged an upset by winning the first division Thursday, but was a distant seventh in the finale.

Bye Bye Sam, the first division favorite was fourth but had to withdraw from the raceoff because of a 103 degree temperature.

Haughton was confident through the week that Laverne Hanover would win the record $109,731 Little Brown Jug, the second jewel in pacing's triple crown. Bye Bye Sam won the first leg, the Messenger Stakes, when Laverne Hanover faded in the stretch.

SHS Harriers Score

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties High School's cross-country squad took the first five places on their 2.5-mile home course layout to drub Cardinal Farley Military Academy by a 15-48 score, on a rather windy day.

Seniors took the Sawyers' first seven places and they are the boys that have to do the job all season for," said coach Bud Smith. "Last year Saugerties finished 8-4 overall and expect to improve on that this year," he added.

One of the team's co-captains, Rex Kiniry, came home with the best time of the day for Saugerties, 13:31. The next four were also Sawyers: Pete Fredkin 14:08, Dan Moser 14:22, Steve Rosenberg 14:45, and Stan Rosenberg 14:28.

The order of finish:
Saugerties 15; Cardinal Farley 48.
1. Rex Kiniry, S 13:31

3. Dan Moser, S 14:22
4. Steve Rosenberg, S 14:25
5. Stan Rosenberg, S 14:28
6. Dave Kalbacker, CF 14:28
7. John Johnson, S 14:42

Pick Colts Over Rams

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Let's see, Allie Sherman is out, Vince Lombardi is in Washington, Joe Namath has sold out Bachelors III, and John Unitas and Gale Sayers are back.

The new National Football League season opens Sunday with a sizzler—Los Angeles at Baltimore—and the American Football League already is heading into a second week.

NFL
Baltimore 24, Los Angeles 17—Unitas is back and the Colts have won six straight in the exhibition season. A couple of tough defensive clubs, Rams have Les Josephson and Larry Smith to run but miss Bernie Casey as a target for Roman Gabriel. Terry Coleman, filling in for Jerry Hill, has a knee problem so Unitas had better be hot.

Green Bay 17, Chicago 13—Packers' offense started to click when Travis Williams took over. Kat Starr healthy and rebuilt offensive line improving. Gale Sayers could break it open. Packers better than in 199 loss in exhibition.

Cleveland 24, Philadelphia 14—New Astroturf won't help Jerry Williams' Eagles, although Browns are hurting in defensive backfield. Loss of Gary Pettigrew blow to Eagles. Leroy Kelly primed for first start with rookie Ron Johnson to help.

Minnesota 24, New York 21—Could be an upset if Giants are keyed up to "show Allie". Vikings won exhibition, using reserves in second half. Fran Tarkenton would like to do a job on his old mates but the Giants have lost 14 straight to the West.

St. Louis 27, Dallas 21—The Cards to upend the Cowboys, especially if Craig Morton can't go. Charley Johnson's tosses to Jackie Smith should do the job. Loss of Bob Hayes cripples Dallas but rookie Calvin Hill looks like an exciting runner.

Detroit 21, Pittsburgh 10—Mel Larr probable despite virus and now fully recovered from knee surgery; Lem Barney in the line will give Dick Shiner a rough afternoon.

Washington 17, New Orleans 14—Sonny Jurgensen should be enough to give Vince Lombardi his first win as Redskins' coach. Lions bombed Saints in final exhibition. However, New Orleans holds 2-1 edge over Washington in series.

San Francisco 28, Atlanta 17—Winless 49ers who lose all exhibition games must go all out against Norm Van Brocklin's charged-up Falcons, who have been getting strong efforts from Jim Butler and Junior Coffey.

AFL
Oakland 35, Miami 21 (Saturday night)—Raiders opened with 21-17 win over Houston and will be making second straight home appearance. Miami always dangerous with Bob Griese passing but Oakland has too much pass rush.

New York 23, Denver 17—Even if Joe Namath can't go all the way, Jets should be able to sneak past Broncos, who always give them trouble. Don't forget, Denver beat the Jets last year 21-13 and also won last meeting in 1967.

Kansas City 35, Boston 14—Chiefs can call the score in this one after romping through exhibition series and opening game with San Diego. Kansas City ball hawks can make life miserable for Mike Taliaferro.

Houston 30, Buffalo 14—Oilers' only worry is O.J. Simpson on those kick returns. Jerry LeVias new threat in Houston attack.

San Diego 28, Cincinnati 14—Greg Cook's passing won't be enough to match Chargers' scoring potential. San Diego won handily in both 1968 games although offense was flat against Chiefs in opener.

Dear Abby

Virtue Not Unrepaid

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you for some practical words of advice to pass on to my 16-year-old daughter. She is a fine, pretty, intelligent girl with high ideals. Popular, too, and respected by her classmates. I have instilled the "old-fashioned" virtues in her and we have had some frank discussions about sex. She's always believed that it paid off to be "nice," and went with one of the most popular boys in high school. They enjoyed a decent, fun relationship and considered themselves "in love" as most kids do. She wore his "friendship" ring and he wore hers.

She told me that lately he was trying to get her to go a little bit further than she wanted to go, but she managed to keep him in line.

Last week he gave her an ultimatum, and when she refused to cross the limit line, he dropped her and went back to his old girl. (He had told my daughter that he'd been intimate with that girl, and I have reason to believe he had. I am not knocking her, but she has had no supervision, having lived with a divorced mother who has a poor reputation and is never home herself.)

Now my daughter feels that being "good" did not pay off. In her disappointment and jealousy and through her 16-year-old eyes she's played life's game honorably and lost, while the other girl did all the "wrong" things and won. What can I say to her?

HER MOM: DEAR MOM: You can tell her that "life's game" is hardly over at age 16, and a boy who would give her such an ultimatum is no bargain. Tell her, too, that before the game is over, she'll realize that the she may have lost one boyfriend, she WON much more.

DEAR ABBY: Some very good friends of ours have a son who has gone the hippie route. When we inquire about their "children," (they have others who are married and one is in the service) should we inquire about their hippie son? Or should we just mention him, like he is "dead"? We know that they are pretty sick about the life he leads.

NEEDS TO KNOW: DEAR NEEDS: Knowing that your friends would be hurt or embarrassed by the mention of their hippie son, don't mention him.

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with me? I was crazy about this man who was wonderful company and a great guy. The only thing wrong with him was that sometimes he drank too much. Then he got quarrelsome and moody. He wanted to marry me, but I was afraid of his drinking and kept putting him off. He got tired of my stalling and married somebody else.

I hear his wife sold him on A.A. and he hasn't had a drink in a year. I can't get this guy off my mind and now I'm eating my heart out. Can you help me?

LONELY IN A CROWD: DEAR LONELY: Quit eating your heart out with thoughts of what might of been. The one who got away always looks best. And should you ever meet another "wonderful guy" whose only weakness is joy juice, try to tell him on A.A. And if you succeed, THEN marry him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STUPID": No question is stupid if it's sincere. Don't ever be afraid to ask a "stupid" question. It's better than making a stupid mistake.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Deceptive Bid Boomerangs

By Oswald and James Jacoby

same bids that would be made today except that a lot of players would open the South hand with a forcing bid of some sort.

Sims' hand was so strong that he decided to bid six once Karn raised him. His 1930 style would be to jump right to the slam but he saw no harm in trying a little deception. He stopped to bid three diamonds!

Karn went back to three spades. He didn't know what Sims' three diamond bid meant except that it was a force and all his hand warranted was the most minimum response he could make.

This deception boomeranged. Bruce was unknown back then but he was already a great player and he said to himself, "Sims was going to six anyway. Maybe he wanted to stop a diamond lead."

Out came the diamond king and Sims was one down before he could get started.

Neither the Sims team nor the Bruce team won the Vanderbilt that year but Sims was so impressed by this lead that he asked Bruce to join the team he was starting and to play with Jacoby.

The Sims, Karn, Bruce, Jacoby team won everything in 1931 but broke up shortly after while the Bruce-Jacoby partnership continued as the base of the famous Four Aces team that dominated bridge from 1932 to 1941.

Today's hand is taken from an early round match in the 1930 Vanderbilt Cup tournament. South was the late Philip Hal Sims, the greatest auction bridge player of all time and one of the titans of those early days of contract. North was Willard S. Karn who was destined to win the 1931 Vanderbilt with Sims and Oswald Jacoby and David Bruce.

Bruce held the West cards and was then a rather unknown young player. Sims' one-spade opening and Karn's raise to two spades were about the

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

A PAIN? (Q.) I get the feeling that I am a pain in the neck to almost everyone. I get it so strongly when I'm around people that I want to be alone with myself.

I've talked to one person about it—a boy named John. He is nearly a stranger, as I've known him for only four days. But I can see he's a great person and a rare, true friend.

John really did not have any idea what to say about my feeling, but I could see that he saw that I was bothered greatly and he made an attempt to make me feel better. But I still feel like I'm a pain in the neck. Please help me. — Worrying in Caldwell, N. J.

(A.) You were not a pain in the neck to John. This indicated to me that maybe you aren't being fair to yourself in thinking you're a pain in the neck to most people.

You say that John is a great person and a rare friend. Maybe if you'll stick around him, some of his qualities will rub off on you and you'll feel better about yourself.

But don't talk to him any more about being a pain in the neck. Talk about other things.

Getting your mind off being a pain in the neck will help the pain to go away. I am confident that you, with John's help, can cure it.

SKINNY LEGS: (Q.) I have a pretty good looking face and figure, but when a boy's eyes get down to my legs, he loses interest. The reason is that my legs are skinny.

I'm getting more and more conscious of just how skinny they are. Because of them, some people call me "Bony." Please don't tell me to wear pants. I do sometimes, but I can't go through life in pants.—Skinny Legs, Hurting Heart in Newport, R. I.

(A.) Go see the movie, "Funny Girl" and you'll see an excellent example of how talent and determination can overcome skinny legs, etc.

Networks' Feast Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television now is over-feeding its viewer as extravagantly as it starved him during the summer famine.

With ABC and NBC presenting on Thursday night the season premieres of some of their most popular programs—"That Girl," "Bewitched," "Daniel Boone" and "Ironsides"—CBS busily loaded in a special to conflict with them. It was called "The Time of Man" and was based up to a point, on some unusual film and commentary obtained through the American Museum of Natural History.

The point of the program was that man is in danger of bringing about his own extinction by his incompetence—hardly a novel TV theme.

The program began by explaining the chemistry of the world's creation and moved step by step, through the age of dinosaurs. The program was most interesting when it lingered on sequences showing the tribal characteristics of some primitive African tribes.

Some film showed one tribe in which each man and woman takes care of his own needs without any feeling toward his fellow man and where children are turned out to fend for themselves at the age of three. Another tribe was shown in an ages-old ritual of warfare and reprisal, so old that it has lost its meaning.

The program made its point about the futility of war. But then it moved on to a portion that seemed to belong to some other program. This was a montage of old and recent film clips that in a few minutes ran through history from the time film was invented until the astronauts stepped onto the moon.

Its sudden change of style and message suggested there was just not enough museum film to fill the hour.

The feast of the networks will continue over the weekend with full schedules of premieres and specials.

Tonight ABC will present a special, "A Matter of Conscience," a timely examination of ethics in government. Later NBC will have the premiere of "Bracken's World," (10-11 EDT) which is a series tied into life in a film studio.

Andy Williams' new variety hour will make its NBC debut Saturday at 7:30-8:30 p.m. EDT. On Sunday night, 7:30-9 EDT, CBS will present an extraordinary documentary, "The Royal Family," an informal portrait of Queen Elizabeth II as a work-shot—was made with the coming wife and mother. It gives a glimpse of life behind the iron gates of Buckingham Palace, some $2-million. It was broadcast originally in Britain last culled from 43 hours of material.

A Concerned Curran—Praise for Army Corps

By SHANE CROSBY
ROSENDALE

Concerned that the controversy over sewage in the village of Rosendale may somehow harm successful completion of the $3-million flood control project, Mayor William P. Curran has issued a complimentary statement for the Army Corps of Engineers.

"I want to compliment them for the fine job they are doing on the overall flood project," the mayor said Thursday. "I don't want anything to happen to the overall project" because of the differences between the Corps and the village over what to do with waste from homes along the project's creek.

Mayor Curran said his battle to have the Army reverse its stand on reconstruction of sewerage lines and instead help build a Main Street trunk line was "an opportunity I seized upon to get something for the village."

The mayor said he does not want the Army to halt the flood project at this stage because of the controversy that he is apparently attempting to bring to an end.

Corps officials in New York City viewed the mayor's statement as being both a sign of appeasement and with caution. "He may know something that we don't," said a spokesman. Richard Campbell, after hearing the mayor's remarks.

The Army has been holding up work on "headers" along the Main Street dike that lines the bank of the Rondout Creek for more than two weeks while discussions were held between the Corps and the mayor. Curran charged Aug. 20 that the Army and the federal government were "aiding and condoning pollution" by installing the header that would collect raw sewage and dump it untreated into the creek.

Instead, Curran asked the Army to install a Main Street trunk line already on village drawing boards that would "in a year or two" connect to a sewage treatment plant in the Creek Locks area.

His request was turned down by the Army who said it was committed to the reconstruction of lines that were in operation before flood control work began. The army contended that Curran's Main Street line would also be dumping raw untreated waste into the creek at one location and in greater concentration than the "headers" would.

Sewage would not be treated until the village built and began operations at its proposed sewage treatment plant, in about two years, the Army said. They added that the village has not been given voter approval for the treatment plant or the Main Street line as yet and plans are still being worked on by the village engineers.

Curran may still be able to have a Main Street line and a village sewerage system installed if the Corps goes ahead with its "header" plan, but Army funds and labor would not be available as he had hoped.

Many Undecided in Bonn

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

BONN, Germany (AP) — With West Germany's general election nine days away, opinion polls say a large percentage of the voters are undecided and either major party has a chance to come in ahead.

One poll indicates 16 per cent of the 38 million voters haven't made up their minds.

The two parties, Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's Social Democrats, are partners in the present government. But they are going into the election Sept. 28 as rivals.

Each would like to win the largest number of the 496 voting seats in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, and thus make its leader West Germany's next chancellor.

None of the pollsters gives the major parties a chance to win a majority in the Bundestag, the meaning that the party winning the most seats must seek a partner to govern.

The leading party could seek

a partnership with the Free Democrats, now in opposition with 49 Bundestag seats, or the two major parties could continue the present "grand coalition."

Two other parties are in the race nationally—the ultrarightist National Democratic party and the Action for Democratic Freedom, a union of the extreme left including the newly constituted Communist party. Neither is given much of a chance of capturing enough votes to enter the Bundestag.

Leaders of the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats are trying to make political capital out of the country's labor unrest. Political analysts believe that a series of wildcat strikes earlier this month, in which some 50,000 miners and steel workers and 8,000 shipyard workers demanded higher wages, hurt the Socialists most. The public tends to hold them responsible for the workers' actions.

The Social Democrats blame Kiesinger for the wage situation, contending that his rejection of Schiller's proposal to increase the official value of the German mark at least 6.25 per cent has left the country's economic boom unchecked and is causing inflationary pressure.

The Christian Democrats reject this and tell voters that their two decades of rule have brought West Germany prosperity unparalleled in German history.

Some Marbletown Zoning Proposals

STONE RIDGE
Marbletown zoning dropped up here Wednesday as the Town Planning Board held its first public hearing in more than six months and its third official hearing to date.

Changes in the proposed law almost filled the evening's discussion before more than 65 residents and board members. Changes announced at the hearing include:

- The elimination of flood planes that have been found to be above the water level.
- Conversion of all acreage requirements to become one acre per family throughout the town as a minimum, including multiple family dwellings.
- Increased soil mining requirements.

Prohibitions against created stagnant ponds.

Charles Dedrick of Stone Ridge, one of the newest members of the planning board, said pollution and sewage problems were of concern to "almost everyone" at the meeting. He said all in attendance seemed in favor of the changes made or planned by the board.

He said that after checking 1928 maps, the advisory firm of Brown and Anthony told the board that flood planes listed were not true to present day conditions, due to change in dam design and waterway improvements.

Dedrick said the Brown and Anthony firm suggested elimination of the plans because, he said, some were on "high ground." The flood areas were along the Rondout and Esopus Creeks, he said.

Acreage was changed throughout the township from two acres in some sections and one-half acre in other to one acre. This was done, said Dedrick, "because most everybody wanted it that way." Persons in the High Falls area had been given a one-half acre minimum under the proposed law because the board had been of the feeling that that area offered the "best drainage in the town" and could service more persons per acre than other parts of the township, formerly listed as two-acre.

The new acreage requirement also applies to multiple family dwellings, he said, where an acre would have to be provided for every family. Dedrick cited as an example, a 20 family apartment complex that would now have to be built on no less than 20 acres.

Soil mining in the township went under heavy discussion and at the hearing, he said.

Mining operators would now be required to keep the operation at least 500 feet from the boundary of their property and will have to show the board that the property will be "graded" after the business moves.

A fee of $25 was set on soil mining permits, a reduction from $100 that Dedrick said the board felt was "too much."

Stagnant ponds are also prohibited under the proposed law. The pond requirement was made as a pollution deterrent. Present stagnant ponds, most used only for fire protection, will not be covered by the new rule. Dedrick said a fourth public hearing is scheduled for sometime in October by the board, but no date has been set.

Gov. Rockefeller Gets Taste of Transit Woes

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Governor Rockefeller had a personal taste of New York State transportation problems when his plane was late taking off and his press secretary encountered delays while motoring.

The problems made the governor 30 minutes late Thursday and caused his aide, Ronald Maiorana, not to show up for appropriately enough, a tour of the state's transportation building complex in Albany.

The governor shook hands and spoke to groups of state workers in various sections of the six-story structure on the State Office Building campus site. He sparked chuckles when he explained he was delayed because his plane at La Guardia in New York City had to wait for 14 others to depart before it could leave for Albany.

Maiorana, Rockefeller explained while talking about traffic and railroad problems on Long Island, missed the plane because it took him two hours and 30 minutes to travel 45 miles.

His reference to the Long Island Rail Road was in line with his promise that it would be the best in the nation by Oct. 7.

The governor said he was looking to the Transportation Department for some answers to airport congestion.

Rockefeller was accompanied by Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson. They were joined by department officials, including Theodore W. Parker, who became commissioner Sept. 2 under appointment by the governor.

Asked whether he would endorse U. S. Sen. Charles Goodell for a full term next year, Rockefeller commented that the senator hasn't announced his candidacy.

About 1,500 persons are employed in the two main buildings making up the transportation complex. It was the governor's first visit to the department as such. In 1964, he was on hand for the opening of a department laboratory.

The governor was estimated to have reached another 6,000 of the 16,000 transportation employees by radio. He spoke over a network linking the 10 transportation districts covering 57 counties outside of New York City, and 1,400 mobile units throughout the state.

An Unseen, Unknown Art Object Will Be Sold to the Highest Bidder

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 200 art patrons and celebrities have the opportunity to buy an object d'art which they will never see. In fact, they will never know what it is or who created it.

Letters offering to sell the object to such well known art devotees as Beetle John Lennon; his wife, Yoko Ono; Marian Javits, wife of Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.; actor Richard Burton and financier Howard Hughes were mailed Monday by a group of young artists who signed themselves LLIS. Bids, returnable to an E. 62nd Street address, are due by Oct. 30.

Tom Parrish, 27, the spokesman for the artists, explained that it's just a gesture, something we are making possible.

We want the owner to be free to imagine what the object is. In fact, the object is large and it is tiny. It is in New York and it is in California. That's why it is so beautiful. It is so pure and so intangible."

The object will be placed somewhere, and the purchaser will get a bill of sale. A signed certificate from a lawyer witnessing that the object exists and has been placed somewhere will be put in a bank. Only the lawyer and the creators of the object will know where it is.

Ideally the owner will never know who the artists are. Should the owner discover the nature of the object or the documented information, it would destroy the work of art, Parrish said.

The artists would most like Hughes to buy the object because the things he buys are so tangible, and his purchasing it would be the epitome of proof that in this materialistic age someone will buy something intangible, said Parrish.

It's not exactly a protest," he said. But this could only happen in a capitalist society."

The letters, LLIS, were chosen for no particular reason, he said, and the mail box at the E. 62nd Street address was rented when it became apparent they could not anonymously rent a U.S. Post Office box.

The artists had to go to several lawyers before they found one intrigued with the idea of making it possible for persons, whose motivations are genuine, to sell nothing," Parrish said.

The first couple of lawyers thought it was fraud," he said. They didn't understand. And no matter how hard we tried we couldn't get the idea across to the tax people."
